

Dirksen Attack Called Threat To GOP Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) — A slashing attack by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, on critics of President Johnson's war course threatens to splinter any Republican unity on the Vietnam issue for the 1968 elections.

The Senate GOP leader, who expects to have a guiding hand in drafting the party's platform next year, fired at Republicans and Democrats alike in a desk-pounding, fist-shaking indictment Tuesday of those willing to settle for something less than a Communist defeat in Vietnam.

In a bristling exchange with Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee over whether American security is at stake in the conflict, Dirksen trained his guns on recent dovish proposals by Sens. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., and his Illinois colleague, Sen. Charles H. Percy.

This contrasted sharply to his fulsome praise for Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, his leadership assistant, who said the United States must not abandon its Asian commitments. Kuchel told the Senate this country must not accept some "nameless settlement" just to end the war.

Dirksen lectured his colleagues for trying, he said, to run the war from the Senate floor. He counseled Johnson's critics not to demean the presidency.

"You do not demean him in the eyes of the people abroad because when you do, you demean the prestige of this republic," he roared. "I cannot denigrate or demean him in the eyes of the world in anything I say."

Without naming his colleague, Dirksen challenged Percy's Monday statement that more than half of the American people disapprove of the manner in which the President is conducting the war and that Johnson has not persuaded U. S. allies to lead their full share of the conflict.

Mayor Says Jury Caused Police Woes

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Police Commissioner Ray Girardin today submitted his resignation, effective Thursday — his 65th birthday.

Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh accepted the resignation "with great regret" and attacked the two years of Wayne County grand juries which he said had unsettled the Detroit Police Department by its probes of police activities.

Girardin said he would remain on the job until a successor is named.

Girardin had been under fire from some quarters for more than a year. Several policemen were indicted during a grand jury revealed that they had visited alleged Mafia leaders.

The department, however, was never accused of being corrupt.

Girardin, a former police reporter for the now defunct Detroit Times and later a personal aide of Cavanagh's, also came under fire following Detroit's July racial riot. Some critics said the city police reacted too slowly. Others said they didn't react strongly enough.

There had been published reports since the riots that Cavanagh had become disenchanted with his commissioner and would ask him to quit. Both Girardin and Cavanagh denied the reports.

"After two years of probing and digging in an inquisition that at times was far from fair, the grand jury failed to find corruption in the department, organized crime in the city or any widespread wrong doing among the police," Cavanagh said.

Guardsmen Alerted As Trucker Strike Violence Increases

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Rocks and bullets harassed truckers moving along the Pennsylvania Turnpike during the night, despite Gov. Raymond P. Shafer's placement of the National Guard on standby and beefed up police patrols.

And in Ohio, Butler County sheriff's deputies said four trucks parked at a trucking company near Middletown, Ohio were drenched with gasoline and set afire. Two rigs were destroyed.

Pennsylvania police said a trucker's windshield was shot out near Laurel Mountain, but he wasn't hurt. Officers were checking out reports of shooting and stoning all along the western end of the toll road.

The new violence came in the face of the governor's order which gathered uniformed guardsmen at armories throughout western Pennsylvania.

"We intend to protect life and property," Shafer said as he alerted guard units throughout western Pennsylvania. "We intend to maintain the orderly flow of traffic within Pennsylvania's borders."

The alert was issued after strike leaders said the truckers had rejected a truce proposal that would have brought peace to the eight-state walkout, now in its seventh week.

Shafer also sent telegrams to governors of the other seven states, asking them to send representatives to a meeting in Pittsburgh Monday to try and resolve the dispute.

"The impact of the National Steel Haulers' Protest Committee strike is seriously threatening large segments of interstate economy," Shafer said in the telegram to governors of Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, New York, New Jersey, Maryland and West Virginia.

An estimated 10,000 to 20,000 owner-operators of steel-hauling rigs are on strike. But a Denver, Colo., trucker says some 75,000 drivers who are discontented with the Teamsters Union may curb their rigs in sympathy.

Solons Adopt Law Requiring Weeds Be Cut

It's been said that getting weeds cut is like the weather: "Everybody complains, but no one does anything about it!" Circleville City Council did Tuesday night.

Councilmen adopted legislation requiring six property owners to cut "noxious weeds" on their property. The ordinance, following a first reading, was unanimously approved.

To be served notices by the police department ordering the weeds cut within five days are the following: Edwin Dean manager of Circleville Metal Works Inc. 301 Logan St. an area containing 3.14 acres; William L. Juhn, Cocoa Beach, Fla., for several lots between Rosewood Ave. and Highland Ave.;

izing the appropriation of $300 to be added to the park caretaker's salary fund. It, too, was passed under a suspension of the rules.

The Service Director, via ordinance, was authorized to advertise for bids for labor and materials to be used in construction of the North Storm Sewer Project. The bids are to be submitted in accordance with plans and estimates of costs of construction as made by Burgess and Niple, consulting engineers for the city.

COUNCIL BRIEFS

Chief of Police Robert Temple asked that the Safety Committee meet with school officials in an effort to alleviate the traffic problems following night activities at the high school. He said he would encourage the school board to gravel the lot east of the building used for parking.

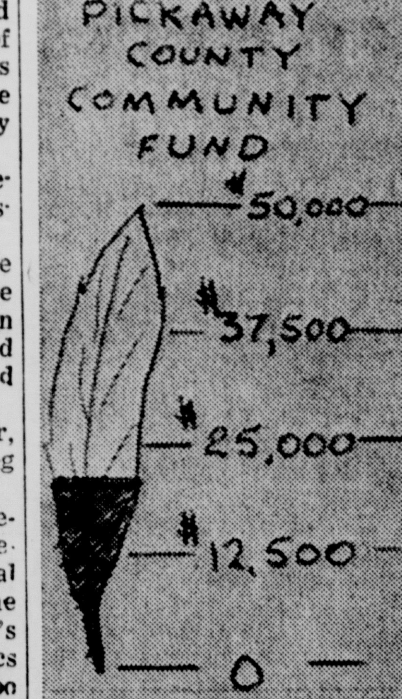

Temple said there is a real need for another access to the high school grounds. He said the situation, as is, is "not safe," since all traffic has to go in and out using the same two-lane street.

Ervin Leist, city utilities manager, commented that Circleville Mobile Homes, N. Court St., has asked for permission to add more trailer sites and tap into the city's sanitary sewer system. According to Leist, if the request isn't granted, the park owners plan to install their own aeration system. Leist added (Continued on Page 2)

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes said today that Ohio will cooperate with West Virginia on construction of a new bridge across the Ohio River connecting Steubenville with Weirton, W. Va.

Rhodes said that as soon as local authorities can agree on a site, "we will take steps immediately."

The governor said the present Fort Steuben Bridge is "antiquated and obsolete and the people in this area deserve a new modern bridge. They have been patient for a long time."

The Fort Steuben bridge recently was ordered closed indefinitely for repairs and the only other bridge connecting the two cities is in poor condition.

The governor's office said that after he conferred with Highway Director P. E. Masheter, Rhodes discussed the bridge situation with West Virginia Gov. Hulett C. Smith. The office did not say whether the two governors made immediate plans.

The Ohio Highway Department, meanwhile, announced it was asking Controlling Board permission to hire a contractor for round-the-clock repairs to the concrete base of the Fort Steuben Bridge.

Labor Party Snubs Wilson On Viet War

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP) — The British Labor party rejected today Prime Minister Harold Wilson's policy of supporting the U.S. role in Vietnam and called for a total, swift and permanent halt to the bombing of North Vietnam.

Although Wilson is the party's leader, the decision is not binding on his government.

The party which dominates in Parliament is holding its annual convention here. Vietnam is but one of the issues under debate. The British economy is another.

The convention also voted a resolution urging Wilson to seek the expulsion of Greece's military government from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It also demanded a complete cutoff of all military aid and other contacts with the Greeks until a civilian government is restored.

The convention votes represented a rebuff of British Foreign Secretary George Brown.

The government opposed a resolution calling for an end to the Vietnam bombing.

In an aggressive account of his government's achievements, Wilson drew cheers from the Labor party convention with a promise to free British industry from "American domination."

Wilson's recital of his plans was received quietly but it appeared to rout his critics within the ranks of Labor, divided and uneasy over the nation's economic woes and the deferment of their socialist goals.

"Basically now there is an upturn in the economy," Wilson said.

He said national production and output per man are rising, the rate of unemployment is decreasing leveling off and Britain's overseas trade balancing out.

Wilson spoke with feeling of Britain's nearly 600,000 unemployed, the highest number for 27 years, to 6,000 hushed delegates. He argued that "there was no alternative" to the harsh measures his government had taken in deflating the economy in mid-1966.

Modern Church Plans 'Drive-In' Branch

KENT, Wash. (AP) — Plans for a "drive-in church," which is to have 101 parking stalls, were announced by the Trinity Reformed Church Tuesday.

The idea is to attract persons reluctant to dress up for church, said architect Donald S. Olson.

Drive-in worshippers will be able to see the minister and the regular congregation through large windows in a new wing the church plans to build. They will hear the service through outdoor speakers.

Massive Tides Stalk Mexico

Hurricane's Fury Seen Lessening

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Pocket-sized Hurricane Fern surged into northeastern Mexico above Tampico today still potent although fast dwindling.

Massive tides appeared to pose the gravest threat.

There already was extensive flooding in the vicinity of Tampico, Mexico's second largest port. That city experienced similar hardship in Hurricane Inez nearly a year ago and saw 200 die in a 1955 flood.

Top winds in Hurricane Fern shrank to minimum hurricane force of 75 miles per hour in squalls while the weakening storm was still offshore in the Gulf of Mexico.

They maintained that velocity as the eye struck inland in an area of fishing villages and farm country.

A Weather Bureau advisory reporting Fern's arrival placed the center at 2 a.m. near Latitude 22.7 North and Longitude 97.7 West, or about 30 miles north of Tampico. It was expected to weaken even more rapidly with the center over land.

In an advisory at 5 a.m., observers put the center near Latitude 22.5 North and Longitude 97.7 West, or about 25 miles northwest of Tampico, with maximum winds down to 55 m.p.h. and traveling west-southwest at 7 m.p.h. gales extended outward.

Forecasters said winds and tides along the coast would diminish gradually during the day and the mountains west of Tampico (Continued on Page 20)

Frogman Survives Plunge from Sky

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Joe Thrift plummeted 12,500 feet to earth from an airplane with his parachute partly unopened, hitting at 85 miles an hour.

Thrift, 34, a Navy boatswain's mate, suffered only bruises. He was listed in good condition at the naval hospital after the accident Tuesday.

"I thought the breath was knocked out of me," Thrift said. Other members of the volunteer skydiving team of which Thrift is a member advised him to lie still until an ambulance arrived.

A skydiver, Thrift jumped from a Navy helicopter and executed a 10,000-foot free dive before, at 2,500 feet, he pulled the rip cord.

Thrift is a Navy frogman who is 6-foot-2, 200 pounds.

Stokes Registers Upset Victory In Dem Election

TWO VOTES FOR STOKES — Negro mayoralty candidate Carl Stokes and his wife, Shirley, leave their voting booth in Cleveland after marking their ballots in the Democratic primary elections.

Stokes had heavy support from the Negro community but also got help from white voters to score his impressive victory in Tuesday's primary.

Panel Gives LBJ Budget Ultimatum

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, threatened by the House for weeks to cut spending or see his tax hike bill go down the drain, now has the ultimatum in black and white.

The tax-writing Ways and Means Committee voted 20 to 5 for a resolution putting aside the bill for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge "until such time as the President and the Congress reach an understanding" on spending cuts.

But the full House narrowly refused to order Johnson to slice spending $5 billion. It did give the Appropriations Committee more time to find ways of cutting the budget and acted to insure that departments whose appropriations haven't been finally voted yet will be able to meet their payrolls and other expenses at least through Oct. 10.

In last week's maneuverings, the House held up a vote on the temporary appropriations bill in a bid to force the Appropriations Committee to come up with a spending cut plan.

But the Ways and Means Committee's action Tuesday provided a clear enough message to the White House on congressional attitude about spending reductions.

But numerous questions of just where spending should be cut await congressional decisions.

On Tuesday alone, the Senate Appropriations Committee voted to add $95.5 million to the House-passed space money bill.

A Senate-House conference committee added $13.5 million to a bill to continue the Teacher Corps, after the House had voted nothing for the program.

And the House passed a compromise bill to authorize $2.3 billion in military construction projects after hearing it described as "the most austere" measure possible.

There was no immediate administration reaction to the Ways and Means Committee's action.

One spokesman said he looked for no action by the administration. "I don't see any movement at the moment," he said. "I wouldn't look for any fast reaction."

The Ways and Means Committee has been insisting on tangible evidence of a spending cut of about $5 billion before it sends a tax increase bill to a reluctant House. Johnson has insisted major spending cuts can be calculated only after Congress passes the appropriations bills.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., told newsmen after the Ways and Means action: "It's hopeless."

He said that at present no tax increase would be approved by the committee or passed by the House, adding: "This looks to me like a first step to get a change. Even then a tax bill might not pass and I don't know what my position would be."

Commission Plans Sale of County Land

Funds Earmarked For Construction Of Children's Home

Pickaway County Commissioners today initiated action which will lead to the sale of county owned land west of Circleville along Route 22 at the old infirmary and the Children's Home.

An estimated 185 acres will be involved. Commissioners passed a resolution authorizing the firm of Dummond and Sifford to survey the property.

The solons are proceeding with the necessary legal steps to sell the land with the intention of earmarking the funds for a new Children's Home building.

"We are faced with two alternatives," Commissioner Charles Morris stated today. "Either close down the Children's Home or build a new one. And we've got to take care of those kids."

THE construction of a new home hinges on whether or not the commissioners can raise the necessary funds. Cost of a new home has been estimated at a minimum of $200,000 by David Adams, Columbus architect.

The county can issue up to $100,000 in bonds without going to the voters to ask for a levy, commissioners explain.

Commissioners Lloyd Melvin and Morris believe by issuing the bonds and combining that money with funds realized by selling the real estate holdings and by maintaining a tight purse string on the general fund they can build the home.

Wayne Hines was hesitant to commit himself this morning on the intent of building and the method to raise funds.

"This is not a 30-minute decision," Hines said. "I want to have more time to make up my mind. We might not be able to raise enough money."

However, Commission President Melvin stated emphatically the real estate is being sold for the express purpose of constructing a Children's Home.

In any case, the money will not go into the general fund of the county's budget, but into a capital improvements fund.

Could Become 1st Large City Negro Mayor

CLEVELAND (AP) — Negro attorney Carl B. Stokes won the Democratic nomination for mayor of Cleveland in the biggest political upset this city has seen in 26 years. Stokes told his supporters that "you have vindicated my faith in American democracy."

The personable, 40-year-old state representative faces Seth Taft, grandson of President William Howard Taft, in the Nov. 7 general election. A victory would make Stokes the first elected Negro mayor of one of the 10 largest cities in the United States.

Stokes had heavy support from the Negro community but also got help from white voters to score his impressive victory in Tuesday's primary.

With 900 of the 901 polling places reported, Stokes had 110,354 votes to 92,029 for incumbent Mayor Ralph S. Locher and 8,543 for Frank P. Celeste.

Stokes won against bitter opposition from the party organization, which appealed to racial sentiment in the closing stages of a heated campaign. He already has a promise of support from the two Democratic leaders he defeated.

Both Locher and Celeste went to Stokes' campaign headquarters to congratulate him amid Tuesday night's victory celebration. Locher told newsmen he will support Stokes, and Stokes thanked the mayor for a "gracious" gesture.

Stokes also got a congratulatory call from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The Republican party's strength is estimated at around 40,000 although many of the GOP faithful crossed the line to vote Democratic Tuesday.

NY Teachers Union Fined Leader Jailed

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Federation of Teachers was fined $150,000, today and its president, Albert Shanker, sentenced to 15 days in jail and fined $250 for criminal contempt of court in conducting a strike against the city's public school system.

The sentencing, by Justice Emilio Nunez in State Supreme Court, was viewed by the union as the first application of the punitive provisions of the state's new Taylor law, which bars strikes by public employees.

Charges against two other union officials were dismissed by Nunez.

The city's board of education had obtained an injunction against the strike under the new law, but it did not halt the walkout of the 30,000-member union. The fine thus amounts to about $3 per union member.

Maximum penalties under the law are fines of $10,000 a day against the union and jail terms of up to 30 days and a $250 fine against leaders.

The law has been assailed by the two-million State AFL-CIO.

Frogman Survives Plunge from Sky

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Joe Thrift plummeted 12,500 feet to earth from an airplane with his parachute partly unopened, hitting at 85 miles an hour.

Thrift, 34, a Navy boatswain's mate, suffered only bruises. He was listed in good condition at the naval hospital after the accident Tuesday.

"I thought the breath was knocked out of me," Thrift said. Other members of the volunteer skydiving team of which Thrift is a member advised him to lie still until an ambulance arrived.

A skydiver, Thrift jumped from a Navy helicopter and executed a 10,000-foot free dive before, at 2,500 feet, he pulled the rip cord.

Thrift is a Navy frogman who is 6-foot-2, 200 pounds.

Panel Gives LBJ Budget Ultimatum

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, threatened by the House for weeks to cut spending or see his tax hike bill go down the drain, now has the ultimatum in black and white.

The tax-writing Ways and Means Committee voted 20 to 5 for a resolution putting aside the bill for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge "until such time as the President and the Congress reach an understanding" on spending cuts.

But the full House narrowly refused to order Johnson to slash spending $5 billion. It did give the Appropriations Committee more time to find ways of cutting the budget and acted to insure that departments whose appropriations haven't been finally voted yet will be able to meet their payrolls and other expenses at least through Oct. 10.

In last week's maneuverings, the House held up a vote on the temporary appropriations bill in a bid to force the Appropriations Committee to come up with a spending cut plan.

But the Ways and Means Committee's action Tuesday provided a clear enough message to the White House on congressional attitude about spending reductions.

But numerous questions of just where spending should be cut await congressional decisions.

On Tuesday alone, the Senate Appropriations Committee voted to add $95.5 million to the House-passed space money bill. A Senate-House conference committee added $13.5 million to a bill to continue the Teacher Corps, after the House had voted nothing for the program.

And the House passed a compromise bill to authorize $2.3 billion in military construction projects after hearing it described as "the most austere" measure possible.

There was no immediate administration reaction to the Ways and Means Committee's action.

One spokesman said he looked for no action by the administration. "I don't see any movement at the moment," he said. "I wouldn't look for any fast reaction."

The Ways and Means Committee has been insisting on tangible evidence of a spending cut of about $5 billion before it sends a tax increase bill to a reluctant House. Johnson has insisted major spending cuts can be calculated only after Congress passes the appropriations bills.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., told newsmen after the Ways and Means action: "It's hopeless."

He said that at present no tax increase would be approved by the committee or passed by the House, adding: "This looks to me like a first step to get a change. Even then a tax bill might not pass and I don't know what my position would be."

Funds Earmarked For Construction Of Children's Home

Pickaway County Commissioners today initiated action which will lead to the sale of county owned land west of Circleville along Route 22 at the old infirmary and the Children's Home.

An estimated 185 acres will be involved. Commissioners passed a resolution authorizing the firm of Dummond and Sifford to survey the property.

The solons are proceeding with the necessary legal steps to sell the land with the intention of earmarking the funds for a new Children's Home building.

"We are faced with two alternatives," Commissioner Charles Morris stated today. "Either close down the Children's Home or build a new one. And we've got to take care of those kids."

THE construction of a new home hinges on whether or not the commissioners can raise the necessary funds. Cost of a new home has been estimated at a minimum of $200,000 by David Adams, Columbus architect.

The county can issue up to $100,000 in bonds without going to the voters to ask for a levy, commissioners explain.

Commissioners Lloyd Melvin and Morris believe by issuing the bonds and combining that money with funds realized by selling the real estate holdings and by maintaining a tight purse string on the general fund they can build the home.

Wayne Hines was hesitant to commit himself this morning on the intent of building and the method to raise funds.

However, Commissioner President Melvin stated emphatically the real estate is being sold for the express purpose of constructing a Children's Home.

In any case, the money will not go into the general fund of the county's budget, but into a capital improvements fund.

Could Become 1st Large City Negro Mayor

CLEVELAND (AP) — Negro attorney Carl B. Stokes won the Democratic nomination for mayor of Cleveland in the biggest political upset this city has seen in 26 years. Stokes told his supporters that "you have vindicated my faith in American democracy."

The personable, 40-year-old state representative faces Seth Taft, grandson of President William Howard Taft, in the Nov. 7 general election. A victory would make Stokes the first elected Negro mayor of one of the 10 largest cities in the United States.

Stokes had heavy support from the Negro community but also got help from white votes to score his impressive victory in Tuesday's primary.

With 900 of the 901 polling places reported, Stokes had 110,354 votes to 92,029 for incumbent Mayor Ralph S. Locher and 8,543 for Frank P. Celeste.

Stokes won against bitter opposition from the party organization, which appealed to racial sentiment in the closing stages of a heated campaign. He already has a promise of support from the two Democratic leaders he defeated.

Both Locher and Celeste went to Stokes' campaign headquarters to congratulate him amid Tuesday night's victory celebration. Locher told newsmen he will support Stokes, and Stokes thanked the mayor for a "gracious" gesture.

Stokes also got a congratulatory call from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

NY Teachers Union Fined Leader Jailed

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Federation of Teachers was fined $150,000, today and its president, Albert Shanker, sentenced to 15 days in jail and fined $250 for criminal contempt of court in conducting a strike against the city's public school system.

The sentencing, by Justice Emilio Nunez in State Supreme Court, was viewed by the union as the first application of the punitive provisions of the state's new Taylor law, which bars strikes by public employees.

Charges against two other union officials were dismissed by Nunez.

The city's board of education had obtained an injunction against the strike under the new law, but it did not halt the walkout of the 50,000-member union. The fine thus amounts to about $3 per union member.

Maximum penalties under the law are fines of $10,000 a day against the union and jail terms of up to 30 days and a $250 fine against leaders.

The law has been assailed by the two-million State AFL-CIO.

Airborne Students

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — More than 1,500 eighth grade students in Oklahoma City will be given their first airplane rides Oct. 28.

Oklahoma City Police Chief Hilton Geer and Lt. Gov. George Nigh announced plans for "Operation Fly Over" Tuesday. The project is being held to offer free airplane rides to eighth graders who have never flown before, and will become an annual affair.

Industry Unsure Of Project Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's announcement it will work with private industry in five cities on a $40 million slum dwellers' job experiment finds the companies named apparently knowing little or saying nothing about the project.

Details were announced Tuesday by two Cabinet officers as Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., was telling the nation's top businessmen at a U.S. Chamber of Commerce meeting about his proposed tax incentives for businesses which build plants and homes in slums.

Kennedy welcomed the President's plan. The administration opposes his.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz and Commerce Secretary Alexander B. Trowbridge said the pilot program will be conducted in Boston, Los Angeles, Chicago, Washington and San Antonio, Tex.

Wirtz and Trowbridge said firms participating will be Borg Warner and Sears Roebuck & Co. in Chicago, Lockheed Aircraft, McDonnell-Douglas Aircraft and Litton Industries in Los Angeles, and Avco and New England Electric in Boston.

In Chicago, a Sears spokesman said the firm wasn't notified of the program until Tuesday but agreed to meet with federal officials.

LE Board Holds Meet

The Logan Elm board of education approved an advance draw of $50,000 to meet the monthly bills and payroll for the coming month.

A major portion of the advance was needed to cover summer improvement projects at all the buildings and another large portion was earmarked for new textbooks and other school supplies.

The board discussed the necessity of passage of a 7 mill levy up for renewal in November. The levy must pass for the school to keep state support.

There will be a reduction of 1.1 mill in school taxes due to decrease in bond millage.

A lengthy discussion of job classification and non-teaching employees salary schedule was held.

The board approved the employees' choice of new major medical insurance coverage plan to replace comprehensive medical coverage. Miss Margaret Mattinson was employed to teach one class of high school trigonometry and Al Gabriel was named junior high school basketball coach at Pickaway.

The board discussed aspects of the new minimum standards to be put into effect July 1, 1968, in relation to the Logan Elm District.

John Henn, executive head, was granted permission to attend the OASA session Oct. 9-11 and Miss Susan Hoffines was granted permission to attend a band clinic for Mid-Western States in December.

Try To End Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — United Steelworkers officers have called striking Jones & Laughlin Steel Co. workers to meet Thursday morning in an effort to end an unauthorized strike that started last week.

About 3,000 J&L employees have been idle since Friday in protest against suspension of about a dozen workers in a dispute over grievance handling.

Stokes is a stylish dresser and has to work at keeping his figure trim, which he does. A handsome man with a flashing easy smile, he wears a mustache, and has a receding hairline. His campaign oratory has been mainly man-to-man chat and that while no such meetings have been held yet, the firm is interested in learning more about the project.

A Borg Warner spokesman said his company had been contacted about the possibility of meetings with federal officials and that while no such meetings have been held yet, the firm is interested in learning more about the project.

There was no comment from McDonnell-Douglas and Litton in Los Angeles and no officials from Avco or New England Electric in Boston who knew of the program were available.

A Lockheed official in Los Angeles said the firm would "be happy to help" and added the company has had its own employee training program for six years.

Under the administration plan, industries locating plants in slums would get government help in insuring against risks. The government would make available surplus federal property and equipment.

At a news conference, Trowbridge said the administration plan was preferable to Kennedy's because "we are trying to achieve the same objective with existing legislation and money."

Kennedy's plan would require new legislation.

The effort to create employment and housing for people in the slums was getting attention on other fronts Tuesday.

In the Senate, debate continued on a proposed $2.8 billion emergency job plan for the poor—opposed by the administration on budget-holding grounds and supported by Kennedy. A scaled-down $925 million version has been offered as a compromise.

THE "fence problem" cropped up again last night. The fence in question is on the corner of Atwater Ave. and Cedar Heights Road on property owned by Mrs. Miriam Adkins.

It has been the contention of several councilmen and Mayor Ben Gordon that the fence forces children to walk in the street enroute to school.

Solicitor Kenneth Robbins indicated that the property owner was perfectly within her rights to build a fence to protect her property. However, he told councilmen they have the "means to force sidewalks in the area" if they wanted to. . . "regardless of where the fence is."

Following a lengthy discussion the fence problem was tossed into the laps of the Service and Safety Committees.

Truck, School Bus Collide; Woman, 40 Children Hurt

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A loaded dump truck and a school bus carrying handicapped children collided and overturned on a Jacksonville street today, severing the legs of a woman on the bus and injuring several children.

More than 40 children were hospitalized but none was believed seriously hurt.

Police said Mrs. Olivia Brooks, a temporary attendant to the children, lost both legs when the bus overturned. She was in serious condition.

Investigating officers said the mishap occurred on a Jacksonville Expressway artery when the truck, apparently out of control, crashed through a barrier and smashed into the oncoming bus.

The truck driver was hospitalized with undetermined injuries.

The accident took place as children, ranging in age from 8 to 12, were being transferred to the J. Allen Axson School for mentally retarded children from the Blitmore School. Officials said the transfer was a daily procedure.

Mrs. Eugenia Randall, the regular attendant, was driving the bus at the time of the mishap, school officials said. The regular bus driver Dwayne Henry, was aboard the bus but there was no explanation immediately why he was not driving.

School officials said the bus normally carries 46 children.

Combat Men Given Priority In Job Training Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Combat men will be first in line for special training in civilian job skills under the Pentagon's new "Project Transition."

"The aim of the program will be to impart to the returning servicemen marketable skills which will essentially enhance their chances of good employment," the Defense Department said.

In response to questions, the Pentagon enlarged on Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's brief reference to Project Transition in a talk Tuesday to a business-oriented group.

McNamara said some 750,000 servicemen go back into civilian life each year.

A recent survey, McNamara said, indicated 60 per cent of those being discharged are anxious for some kind of job preparation.

An experimental program already is under way, McNamara said, and the Pentagon hopes to have from 60 to 80 bases involved a year from now.

A pilot study was undertaken at Ft. Knox, Ky., in June, and others have been organized since at the San Francisco Naval Base, Randolph Air Force Base, Tex., and Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Project Transition also contemplates giving some elementary and high school education to those who may need it in order to improve their chances for jobs after service.

Beyond the training, the Pentagon said, will be job placement opportunities.

Project Transition will bring in services of the Labor Department, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Post Office Department, and various state and local agencies.

Dick Van Dyke To Portray JFK

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor-comedian Dick Van Dyke is being considered to portray President John F. Kennedy in a film, according to his manager.

Byron Paul said Tuesday his client has been conferring with the National General Corp., which has film rights to the book "With Kennedy," by Pierre Salinger, the former presidential press secretary.

But Salinger, now vice president of international affairs for Continental Airlines, said in New York it was a misunderstanding.

"No actor or actress has been selected to play in the movie adaptation of 'With Kennedy,' nor has anyone been selected to write the screenplay," a spokesman quoted Salinger as saying.

A National Guard spokesman said the company had the rights to the book but said "there has been no talk of casting it."

Art League Plans Show

Circleville Art League will hold a fall show in the main corridor of the court house during the Pumpkin Show, Oct. 18-20. The public is invited to the critique Oct. 15, at 3:30 p.m. in the main corridor of the court house.

The show will be judged on that day by Bruce Sodervick head of the painting and allied arts department at Ohio University, Chillicothe.

Five categories will be represented in the show: water colors mixed media, oils, graphics and drawing with best of show "Artie" awards, first, second and third ribbons and two "honorable mentions" to be awarded to each of the five categories.

Exhibitors receiving "Best of Show", Artie and first and second ribbons will display their award-winning entries in the Savings Bank, 118 N. Court St., from Oct. 23 - Nov. 20.

Exhibitors receiving third place ribbons and honorable mention awards will display their art in the Pickaway County Public Library from Oct. 23-Nov. 20.

Many of the show entries will be for sale. Information may be obtained by contacting the individual artists.

Chairman for the event will be Dorothy Dougherty. Mildred Johnson is co-chairman. The hanging committee will consist of Audrey Truner, Eleanor Wilkes and Clara Schofield.

Ray Travers, who says he founded a truckers' group called "Fight for Survival" to combat what he calls hoodlum and Communist elements in the Teamsters, said the decision would be announced this week.

If the strike is called, he said, freight and steel shipments would be halted throughout the nation.

Travers called on President Johnson to invoke the Taft-Hartley law "to cool off the situation that daily sees our members shot and beaten."

The truckers, in rejecting the agreement reached with the union Friday, vowed to continue the wildcat strike and stop everything on the highways "except wheelbarrows and bicycles."

"We'll never go back to work under these conditions," said William Kusley who touched the strike off in Gary, Ind., seven weeks ago.

The truckers say rising costs have put them in a price squeeze. They describe themselves as independent businessmen who work long hours for slim profits.

The independent owner now receive 73 per cent of the shipping fees paid to the trucking companies they lease out to. They want 79 per cent.

They also want to be paid for the time they sit and wait for their trucks to be loaded.

Calls for Better Plane Control

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A veteran of 30 years as an air-traffic controller says the number of "near miss" air collisions is far greater each year than reported.

Capt. Robert Rockwell of Minneapolis, a pilot the last 25 years with Northwest Airlines, addressed the national convention of the Air Traffic Control Association Tuesday.

Rockwell told of several incidents in which other aircraft passed close enough to his that he "saw the pilot's face" clearly.

"Until we get a system that's foolproof, we have to rely upon radar," he said. "I wish radar was better, and I'm sure you do too."

The pilot said the air traffic control system must be improved, an anticollision system is needed, and there should be more and larger airports. He also complained about lack of clear vision from cockpits.

Experts Say Hippie Movement To Have Long-Range Effect

WASHINGTON (AP) — There wasn't a hippie in sight as some 2,500 planners gathered this week to discuss the next half century of American life. But the hippie movement was much in evidence.

Speaker after speaker from the list of 65 conference participants dwelt in their talks on the hippies—their meaning and their likely effect on the future of the United States.

Some saw in the withdrawal of the hippies from conventional U.S. culture the first seeds of a massive revolt against a technology explosion the speakers felt threatens to strangle individuality.

Others saw in the jobless, responsibility-rejecting hippies the specter of millions of Americans in a future where computer science will have replaced workers with machines.

That the hippies were mentioned at all at the American Institute of Planners prestigious "The Next 50 Years" conference indicates the impact the movement already has had on U.S. life.

Few speakers who talked of the hippies indicated they felt the movement was anywhere near its peak.

August Heckscher, commissioner of New York City's Recreation and Cultural Affairs Administration, warned against dismissing the hippies as merely a fad. He indicated they differ sharply from the goldfish-swallowing collegians of other years.

Heckscher said the hippies may "represent the beginning of a withdrawal from the values and concepts which have dominated the Western world for more than five centuries."

"They may be the beginning of an antitechnological movement which will slow down the mindless pursuit of technological change carried out for its own sake, without concern for the human values it supposedly concerns."

Carl Oglesby, a self-styled radical activist who lectures at Antioch College, also saw the hippie movement as a revolt against a civilization dominated by technology.

And Oglesby gave this description of the average, middle-class product of the "American dream come true" he said the hippie is determined to avoid becoming:

"He has everything the country can offer. He knows how to be educated and how to hold a professional job, how much money he will earn, what kind of house and neighborhood he can expect to live in.

"He will never be hungry or disgraced. Certain tables of social statistics even allow him to predict with impressive accuracy how long he will live, when he will suffer from his first ulcer or heart attack, and when his wife will be unfaithful to him for the first time."

Oglesby added: "In brief, his situation is desperate. He will produce the highest suicide rate the West has seen."

One observer who followed the campaign closely said that of the four mayoral hopefuls "Stokes alone has the ability to mesmerize an audience."

The business community liked Stokes early in the race and he had strong support from that quarter all the way.

As the first Democratic Negro representative in the Ohio House, the 40-year-old Stokes was respected by his colleagues as an eloquent spokesman for civil rights and generally liberal legislation.

But his primary campaign also earned Stokes criticism, apart from that based on racial prejudice.

Some Negroes grumbled he took their votes for granted and spent his time pursuing the white vote.

Party regulars said he wasn't a faithful Democrat and had lined up with Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes on important issues.

Others saw him unqualified because of limited experience and lacking any constructive program to move the city ahead.

Stokes dropped out of his senior year in high school here because, he says, "we were so poor and I had nothing to look forward to." He enlisted in the Army and after World War II went back to school and got his diploma.

After his graduation from the University of Minnesota in 1954, Stokes returned to his native Cleveland to get a law degree two years later at Cleveland Marshall Law School.

Although he has been active in civil rights groups Stokes has not been linked with militant Negro activities. While criticizing the city administration for what he termed failure to attack problems of the Negro slums, he has also stressed the need for law and order.

He and his wife, Shirley, have two children, Cordi, 6, and Carl Jr., 9. They live in the Heights area on Cleveland's southeast side not far from the residence of Stokes' brother, Louis, who also is an attorney.

Combat Men Given Priority In Job Training Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Combat men will be first in line for special training in civilian job skills under the Pentagon's new "Project Transition."

"The aim of the program will be to impart to the returning servicemen marketable skills which will essentially enhance their chances of good employment," the Defense Department said.

In response to questions, the Pentagon enlarged on Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's brief reference to Project Transition in a talk Tuesday to a business-oriented group.

McNamara said some 750,000 servicemen go back into civilian life each year.

A recent survey, McNamara said, indicated 60 per cent of those being discharged are anxious for some kind of job preparation.

An experimental program already is under way, McNamara said, and the Pentagon hopes to have from 60 to 80 bases involved a year from now.

A pilot study was undertaken at Ft. Knox, Ky., in June, and others have been organized since at the San Francisco Naval Base, Randolph Air Force Base, Tex., and Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Project Transition also contemplates giving some elementary and high school education to those who may need it in order to improve their chances for jobs after service.

Beyond the training, the Pentagon said, will be job placement opportunities.

Project Transition will bring in services of the Labor Department, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Post Office Department, and various state and local agencies.

Dick Van Dyke To Portray JFK

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor-comedian Dick Van Dyke is being considered to portray President John F. Kennedy in a film, according to his manager.

Byron Paul said Tuesday his client has been conferring with the National General Corp., which has film rights to the book "With Kennedy," by Pierre Salinger, the former presidential press secretary.

But Salinger, now vice president of international affairs for Continental Airlines, said in New York it was a misunderstanding.

"No actor or actress has been selected to play in the movie adaptation of 'With Kennedy,' nor has anyone been selected to write the screenplay," a spokesman quoted Salinger as saying.

A National Guard spokesman said the company had the rights to the book but said "there has been no talk of casting it."

Art League Plans Show

Circleville Art League will hold a fall show in the main corridor of the court house during the Pumpkin Show, Oct. 18-20. The public is invited to the critique Oct. 15, at 3:30 p.m. in the main corridor of the court house.

The show will be judged on that day by Bruce Sodervick head of the painting and allied arts department at Ohio University, Chillicothe.

Five categories will be represented in the show: water colors mixed media, oils, graphics and drawing with best of show "Artie" awards, first, second and third ribbons and two "honorable mentions" to be awarded to each of the five categories.

Exhibitors receiving "Best of Show", Artie and first and second ribbons will display their award-winning entries in the Savings Bank, 118 N. Court St., from Oct. 23 - Nov. 20.

Exhibitors receiving third place ribbons and honorable mention awards will display their art in the Pickaway County Public Library from Oct. 23 - Nov. 20.

Many of the show entries will be for sale. Information may be obtained by contacting the individual artists.

Chairman for the event will be Dorothy Dougherty. Mildred Johnson is co-chairman. The hanging committee will consist of Audrey Truner, Eleanor Wilkes and Clara Schofield.

patly with the steel-haulers.

Ray Travers, who says he founded a truckers' group called "Fight for Survival" to combat what he calls hoodlum and Communist elements in the Teamsters, said the decision would be announced this week.

If the strike is called, he said, freight and steel shipments would be halted throughout the nation.

Travers called on President Johnson to invoke the Taft-Hartley law "to cool off the situation that daily sees our members shot and beaten."

The truckers, in rejecting the agreement reached with the union Friday, vowed to continue the wildcat strike and stop everything on the highways "except wheelbarrows and bicycles."

"We'll never go back to work under these conditions," said William Kusley who touched the strike off in Gary, Ind., seven weeks ago.

The truckers say rising costs have put them in a price squeeze. They describe themselves as independent businessmen who work long hours for slim profits.

The independent owner now receive 73 per cent of the shipping fees paid to the trucking companies they lease out to. They want 79 per cent.

They also want to be paid for the time they sit and wait for their trucks to be loaded.

Calls for Better Plane Control

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A veteran of 30 years as an Airlines pilot says the number of "near miss" air collisions is far greater each year than reported.

Capt. Robert Rockwell of Minneapolis, a pilot the last 25 years with Northwest Airlines, addressed the national convention of the Air Traffic Control Association Tuesday.

Rockwell told of several incidents in which other aircraft passed close enough to his that he "saw the pilot's face" clearly.

"Until we get a system that's foolproof, we have to rely upon radar," he said. "I wish radar was better, and I'm sure you do too."

The pilot said the air traffic control system must be improved, an anticollision system is needed, and there should be more and larger airports. He also complained about lack of clear vision from cockpits.

Experts Say Hippie Movement To Have Long-Range Effect

WASHINGTON (AP) — There wasn't a hippie in sight as some 2,500 planners gathered this week to discuss the next half century of American life. But the hippie movement was much in evidence.

Speaker after speaker from the list of 65 conference participants dwelt in their talks on the hippies—their meaning and their likely effect on the future of the United States.

Some saw in the withdrawal of the hippies from conventional U.S. culture the first seeds of a massive revolt against a technology explosion the speakers felt threatens to strangle individuality.

Others saw in the jobless, responsibility-rejecting hippies the specter of millions of Americans in a future where computer science will have replaced workers with machines.

That the hippies were mentioned at all at the American Institute of Planners prestigious "The Next 50 Years" conference indicates the impact the movement already has had on U.S. life.

Few speakers who talked of the hippies indicated they felt the movement was anywhere near its peak.

August Heckscher, commissioner of New York City's Recreation and Cultural Affairs Administration, warned against dismissing the hippies as merely a fad. He indicated they differ sharply from the goldfish-swallowing collegians of other years.

Heckscher said the hippies may "represent the beginning of a withdrawal from the values and concepts which have dominated the Western world for more than five centuries."

"They may be the beginning of an antitechnological movement which will slow down the mindless pursuit of technological change carried out for its own sake, without concern for the human values it supposedly concerns."

Carl Oglesby, a self-styled radical activist who lectures at Antioch College, also saw the hippie movement as a revolt against a civilization dominated by technology.

And Oglesby gave this description of the average, middle-class product of the "American dream come true" he said the hippie is determined to avoid becoming:

"He has everything the country can offer. He knows how to be educated and how to hold a professional job, how much money he will earn, what kind of house and neighborhood he can expect to live in."

"He will never be hungry or disgraced. Certain tables of social statistics even allow him to predict with impressive accuracy how long he will live, when he will suffer from his first ulcer or heart attack, and when his wife will be unfaithful to him for the first time."

Oglesby added: "In brief, his situation is desperate. He will produce the highest suicide rate the West has seen."

College Costs Too High

Private education is taking it on the economic chin, with prospects that the cost will go up more rapidly in the next decade than it has in the last 10 years. It now costs an average of $3,414 a year to maintain a student in a private college, an increase of 80 per cent since the 1956-57 term.

By contrast, public college costs rose 20 per cent, on an average from $1,834 to $2,222. Forecasts by the U. S. Office of Education indicate a slight slowdown in cost increases in the next 10 years. But indications are these projections are optimistic.

When the point of diminishing returns will be reached on tuition inflation nobody knows, although there are signs that in some private schools, at least, it may be here. Increases of such magnitude obviously cannot be borne much longer without the quality of education being cut by private schools, or the end of the line being reached.

The U. S. Office of Education makes no attempt to estimate what the government subsidy per student per year is, but this must be added to the parents' cost to get the whole picture of the outlay for modern education.

Nobody questions the value of higher education in today's society, but the need for it does not excuse a pie-in-the-sky attitude toward expenditures for it. Educators, administrators and politicians soon must pool their talents and seek to put a brake on the education spending spree.

Love Matters Above All

It is heartwarming to read that a deaf couple in California finally has won a battle to adopt a 2-year-old boy with normal hearing.

A judge had denied their petition to adopt the boy because the pair could not "provide a normal home for the boy." Humanely, the State Court of Appeals and the California Supreme Court did not agree.

It may be a cliché, but love overcomes a great many obstacles. A child who knows he is loved and wanted is far ahead of a youngster with "normal" parents who don't love him.

The 'Oneness' of Africa

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Nairobi, Kenya -- For hours after waking in the plane at sun-up you look down on a dry, desolate landscape, with no indications of human habitation. You gather that it must be the Sudan. Then comes more pleasant country, with the coloration and contours of places in the American West. Then you are in Nairobi airport, and into a city that looks rather like a California town of the old days that had not yet been swallowed up by greater Los Angeles. And, as a first taste of the Kenya earth, you get a car and drive out to the Nairobi National Park, twenty minutes from the city. Past the gates you are in a land with the long perspectives of Wyoming or Nevada, the earth tawny, the hills blue in the distance. But the thorn trees are African, and so are the eland, the giraffes, the baboons, the ostriches (some with red necks, some without), the ugly and pugnacious warthogs, the fat zebras that stare at you like Swiss cows, and the small black-striped gazelles which probably have a special name of their own. But no lions, and no hippopotami -- they must be sleeping.

After coming here across those hundreds of miles of desert, you think of John F. Kennedy's statement that "The world must be made safe for diversity." Then you think of the claims of the O.A.U., or the Organization of African Unity, that Africa must be all of a piece. But, so you say to yourself, the "oneness" of a continent as vast as this must remain an illusion.

You have talked with a United States Information Service reporter who was at the recent O.A.U. conference in Kinshasa in the Congo. The conference got somewhere, he says, for it produced the beginnings of a dialogue (there's that word again) between Ethiopia, Kenya, and Somalia on the question of the so-called shittas, or pastoral marauders who have been raiding with their Russian arms from a Somalia base across unmarked borders. Maybe the talks between Moslem Somalis, Christian Ethiopians, and Kenyans, whose God lives high on Mount Kenya, will get somewhere. But whether they do or not, some other remarks of the USIS reporter stick in one's mind. He happens to be based in Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, and the thing of interest that he tells you is about the Ethiopian elation when the Israelis won their war with the Arabs. The Ethiopians have their worries about Pan-Arab ism, and an all-conquering Moslem league would not be to their advantage.

Kenya, one gathers, was also on the side of the Israelis, at least tacitly. And, since the Arabs in history have taken twelve million East African slaves, one can see why.

With such feelings in the middle of Africa, the vision of a continent dominated by any one creed, sect or secular power seems almost idiotic. John F. Kennedy, in his care for diversity, need not have worried.

But if Egypt's Nasser and Algeria's Boumedienne, with their Russian backers, aren't likely to work their will from Cairo to the Cape, what of the prospects for sub-Saharan Africa "oneness"? Malawi, so one has heard, is about to resume relations with South Africa despite the apartheid practiced internally by the South Africans. Then there are the Rhodesians, who seem to persist despite the formal efforts to cut off trade with their landlocked country. And there are the Portuguese colonies of Angola and Mozambique. If differences between the middle countries of Africa and the Moslem nations of Mediterranean and Red Sea Africa are likely to persist, why won't diversity continue to be the order of the day in the lowest third of the continent?

A wise inhabitant of Kenya, Gerard Wallop, who was born in Chicago of an English father and an American mother and grew up in Wyoming, is all for the independence of his adopted Kenya nation, where he wants to contribute "friendship and love" as well as his knowledge of farming. But he writes that on going to Mozambique "the Portuguese African seemed happier than our own, more recognized as being one with that ancient colonizing country." So, regardless of one's feelings about colonialism and segregation (I don't happen to like either one, for myself), wouldn't it be common sense to admit that at least three Africas will continue to exist?

The question may well be asked when you consider that one hundred and eighty-seven mercenaries under the strange but presumably gifted Col. Jean Schramme can rattle around in the eastern Congo, with nobody to say them nay. One is literally bowled over here in Kenya when one hears it said that the mercenaries could conquer the whole of the Congo if they thought it worth-while to take the extreme risk of having to rule it once it had been won.

All of this has a bearing on the Communist attempts to win Africa. Isn't it clearly beyond the power of either Moscow or Peking to take over this incredibly diversified continent?

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN "A" FOR imagination goes to the Columbus, Ohio, kid who was caught digging a big hole in his mother's prize garden. "What are you doing there?" cried the horrified mother. The kid answered, "I'm letting some of the dark out of the ground!"

Abercrombie's new wife was a dream girl in every respect save one: when she lost her temper she would bowl him out for a full ten minutes, blaming him for everything from the Black Hole of Calcutta to the Israeli-Arab confrontation. What made all this particularly embarrassing to poor Abercrombie was that the walls of their new apartment were paper-thin and he just knew that neighbors on either side were enjoying her harangues enormously. One evening, goaded to desperation, he found the way to shut her up. She had just reached the top of her form, screaming like a banshee, when Abercrombie clapped a hand across her mouth and shouted at the top of his lungs, "If you don't shut up IMMEDIATELY, I swear I'll never marry you."

She's been meek and quiet as a turtle dove ever since—at least, in the apartment.

Famed symphony conductor Leopold Stokowski points out, "A painter paints his pictures on canvas—but musicians paint their pictures on silence. Our orchestras provide the music. See that you concert-goers provide the silence!"

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What accounts for the severe sense of weakness that follows an attack of flu even if it is a mild case?

Physicians are always amazed by the severe sense of weakness that follows a simple cold, grippé, the flu and even a relatively minor operation. They describe the condition as post-infectious asthenia. This weakness after an infection can sometimes last for weeks. Actually, it is the body's wisdom requesting an adequate period of time for recovery before going back to full scale activity.

I have known patients who after a three-day bout of fever got up for a half-hour and were barely able to return to bed because they were so tired. They had a complete loss of energy and felt limp and enervated to the point of despair.

These symptoms of weakness should be respected. An extra few days of rest insure complete return to health. Doctors very often prescribe a high protein diet and amino acid medications to give the patients a more rapid source of energy.

With drugs and rest the convalescent period can always be shortened. It is impossible to rush the recovery period without doing the body an injustice.

What makes some people heal with scars that have a thick, unpleasant look?

The way a scar heals is very complex. Much is known about how a wound heals and much is still to be learned about this remarkable mechanism.

Some wounds heal with a very fine scar, other heal with a wide scar and still others heal with a thickened keloid scar. A wound that is infected almost never heals with a fine line. An uninfected wound may heal in a barely perceptible way.

There are some people who have a tendency to keloid formation. Many explanations have been offered for the marked thickening of the scars, but none have been entirely satisfactory.

When a patient is known to have a tendency toward keloid scar formation, some special care can be taken to try to avoid it. Some surgeons have used small amounts of X-ray therapy directly to the wound incision in order to reduce the amount of keloid formation.

New studies are being made at the present time to seek a basic reason for unsightly keloid scars that occur in some families. The present scientific work holds forth a promise

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Monday, when Thurgood Marshall took his seat on the U.S. Supreme Court, would have seemed tremendous at some other time, for Marshall is the son of a sleeping-car porter and great-grandson of a slave.

Just 14 years ago it is unlikely any president would have dared to name a Negro to the court which then still clung to its 1896 ruling that segregation, making Negroes second-class citizens, was constitutional.

But 13 years ago there would have been no reason for a president to hesitate. It was on May 17, 1954 that the court abandoned its old opinion and declared that segregation is by its very nature unconstitutional.

It was Marshall, more than any single man in America, who made possible this victory, which threw open the gates of the nation for the Negroes, although the gates are still far from wide open.

If at that time Marshall had been appointed to the court no doubt Negroes all over America would have looked upon him as a saint, the hero of their race. But those 13 years have been a long time in Negro America.

Marshall is a man dedicated to reason and justice under law which is no longer enough for the Negro extremists who have sprung up since 1954, screaming violence and preaching "Black Power" without ever saying what they have in mind.

This American society often hypocritical about democracy while preaching and proclaiming it, has had to melt its religious and racial bigotry a step at a time.

The nation was 47 years old before the first Catholic—Roger B. Taney, who later became a chief justice—was appointed to the Supreme Court in 1836. Five more Catholics have been on the court since.

The nation was 127 years old before the first Jew, Louis B. Brandeis, was made a justice in 1916. Since then four other Jews have been appointed to the court.

And Monday, with the country 178 years old, Marshall was the first Negro given a seat beside the other eight justices.

Marshall went to work for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People as chief counsel. By then the NAACP had decided to fight that old 1896 segregation decision, step by painful step.

The long grind went on. In case after case, winning as he went, Marshall got the court to knock out various forms of segregation, as in interstate buses and graduate schools.

But the court still wouldn't declare all segregation wrong. To get the court to do that, Marshall had to take his final, most tremendous move with a case involving segregation in public schools. And he won in 1954.

In the years since then, Negroes' demands for an end to discrimination in every walk of American life intensified.

Thanks to the victory Marshall won they were now free to agitate peacefully and demonstrate in front of the very police officers who, before 1954, would have shut them up fast, jailed them, and no doubt wrecked their spirit.

As white America yielded slowly, or refused to listen, the Negro extremists moved in, appealing not to Negroes' minds but to their emotions, whipping many into a mood of desperation, irresponsibility, and riots.

Marshall, who looks to a future orderly America, said when sworn in as a justice: "I am greatly honored. Let me take this opportunity to affirm my deep faith in this nation and its people and to pledge that I shall be ever mindful of my obligation to the Constitution and to the goal of equal justice under law."

For a statement like that, the Negro extremists are probably calling him Uncle Tom without having brains enough to realize that if it hadn't been for his victory 13 years ago they wouldn't dare open their mouths now.

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Involve yourself in your time—as awful as that time may be," said Melvyn Douglas. "What else is there?"

Time, the enemy of all men, can be a particularly bitter foe of actors, whose fame and fortune are often dependent on their faces.

But at 66 Douglas has turned his age to his artistic advantage.

In the 1930s he was Hollywood's masculine symbol of debonair sophistication. Later he has been featured in a series of "old man" roles.

His portrayal of an elderly rancher in "Hud" won him an Oscar in 1964. On Oct. 17 he will star on the CBS-TV production of "Do Not Go Gentle Into That Good Night," in which he plays a man placed in a home for the aged by his children.

Does he harbor any inner resentment at being assigned these snow-haired roles?

"No indeed," he responded with crisp realism. "It would be ridiculous for me now to do anything else."

As debonair of spirit as ever, Douglas takes aging as a normal human process and makes no attempt to camouflage it in himself.

"When I was hardly out of my teens," he recalled, "I used to have to play a new part every week on the stage in Chicago. They ranged in age from 18 to 70. I took pleasure in going to the theater early and spending hours making myself up to look gray and haggard."

One of the most active and experienced performers in the entertainment field, Douglas has appeared in some 70 films, 150 stage roles, and numerous television plays. Among his theater hits were "A Free Soul," "Tonight or Never," "Inherit the Wind," "Waltz of the Toreadors" and "Time Out for Ginger."

And many an aging matron's heart still thrills at the memory of his romantic charm in such films as "Theodora Goes Wild," "The Gorgeous Hussy," "As You Desire Me," and "Ninotchka."

Throughout his career Douglas has taken an active part in politics and liberal causes, starting at a time when few Hollywood stars did so. He is married to Helen Gahagan, a former actress, who served three terms in Congress as a Democratic representative from California.

Douglas also served as a private in World War I, and in World War II, after enlisting at the age of 42, he rose from private to major.

"Looking back," he said, "I feel I might have been happy in the fields of sociology and psychological therapy, if I hadn't loved acting so much.

"The most important thing, I believe, is to fulfill your own potentialities—without hurting others, if possible."

"You must involve yourself in your own time. I never let my work hamstring me. I have always liked to do things that are interesting and provocative."

"Fear, insecurity and illness—these are the things that defeat most people. But there is no simple prescription for whipping fear. You must find that within."

"If I can live the rest of my life some kind of health—with joie de vivre—I'll be as happy as any person can be."

College Costs Too High

Private education is taking it on the economic chin, with prospects that the cost will go up more rapidly in the next decade than it has in the last 10 years. It now costs an average of $3,414 a year to maintain a student in a private college, an increase of 80 per cent since the 1956-57 term.

By contrast, public college costs rose 20 per cent, on an average from $1,834 to $2,222. Forecasts by the U. S. Office of Education indicate a slight slow-down in cost increases in the next 10 years. But indications are these projections are optimistic.

When the point of diminishing returns will be reached on tuition inflation nobody knows, although there are signs that in some private schools, at least, it may be here. Increases of such magnitude obviously cannot be borne much longer without the quality of education being cut by private schools, or the end of the line being reached.

The U. S. Office of Education makes no attempt to estimate what the government subsidy per student per year is, but this must be added to the parents' cost to get the whole picture of the outlay for modern education.

Nobody questions the value of higher education in today's society, but the need for it does not excuse a pie-in-the-sky attitude toward expenditures for it. Educators, administrators and politicians soon must pool their talents and seek to put a brake on the education spending spree.

Love Matters Above All

It is heartwarming to read that a deaf couple in California finally has won a battle to adopt a 2-year-old boy with normal hearing.

A judge had denied their petition to adopt the boy because the pair could not "provide a normal home for the boy." Humanely, the State Court of Appeals and the California Supreme Court did not agree.

It may be a cliché, but love overcomes a great many obstacles. A child who knows he is loved and wanted is far ahead of a youngster with "normal" parents who don't love him.

The 'Oneness' of Africa

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Nairobi, Kenya -- For hours after waking in the plane at sun-up you look down on a dry, desolate landscape, with no indications of human habitation. You gather that it must be the Sudan. Then comes more pleasant country, with the coloration and contours of places in the American West. Then you are in Nairobi airport, and into a city that looks rather like a California town of the old days that had not yet been swallowed up by greater Los Angeles. And, as a first taste of the Kenya earth, you get a car and drive out to the Nairobi National Park, twenty minutes from the city. Past the gates you are in a land with the long perspectives of Wyoming or Nevada, the earth tawny, the hills blue in the distance. But the thorn trees are African, and so are the eland, the giraffes, the baboons, the ostriches (some with red beaks, some without), the ugly and pugnacious warthogs, the fat zebras that stare at you like Swiss cows, and the small black-striped gazelles which probably have a special name of their own. But no lions, and no hippopotami -- they must be sleeping.

After coming here across those hundreds of miles of desert, you think of John F. Kennedy's statement that "The world must be made safe for diversity." Then you think of the claims of the O.A.U., or the Organization of African Unity, that Africa must be all of a piece. But, so you say to yourself, the "oneness" of a continent as vast as this must remain an illusion.

You have talked with a United States Information Service reporter who was at the recent O.A.U. conference in Kinshasa in the Congo. The conference got somewhere, he says, for it produced the beginnings of a dialogue (there's that word again) between Ethiopia, Kenya, and Somalia on the question of the so-called shifts, or pastoral marauders who have been raiding with their Russian arms from a Somalia base across unmarked borders. Maybe the talks between Moslem Somalis, Christian Ethiopians, and Kenyans, whose God lives high on Mount Kenya, will get somewhere. But whether they do or not, some other remarks of the USIS reporter stick in one's mind. He happens to be based in Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, and the thing of interest that he tells you is about the Ethiopian elation when the Israelis won their war with the Arabs. The Ethiopians have their worries about Pan-Arab ism, and an all-conquering Moslem league would not be to their advantage.

Kenya, one gathers, was also on the side of the Israelis, at least tacitly. And, since the Arabs in history have taken twelve million East African slaves, one can see why.

With such feelings in the middle of Africa, the vision of a continent dominated by any one creed, sect or secular power seems almost idiotic. John F. Kennedy, in his care for diversity, need not have worried.

But if Egypt's Nasser and Algeria's Boumedienne, with their Russian backers, aren't likely to work their will from Cairo to the Cape, what of the prospects for sub-Saharan Africa "oneness"? Malawi, so one has heard, is about to resume relations with South Africa despite the apartheid practiced internally by the South Africans. Then there are the Rhodesians, who seem to persist despite the formal efforts to cut off trade with their landlocked country. And there are the Portuguese colonies of Angola and Mozambique. If differences between the middle countries of Africa and the Moslem nations of Mediterranean and Red Sea Africa are likely to persist, why won't diversity continue to be the order of the day in the lowest third of the continent?

A wise inhabitant of Kenya, Gerard Wallop, who was born in Chicago of an English father and an American mother and grew up in Wyoming, is all for the independence of his adopted Kenya nation, where he wants to contribute "friendship and love" as well as his knowledge of farming. But he writes that on going to Mozambique "the Portuguese African seemed happier than our own, more recognized as being one with that ancient colonizing country." So, regardless of one's feelings about colonialism and segregation (I don't happen to like either one, for myself), wouldn't it be common sense to admit that at least three Africans will continue to exist?

The question may well be asked when you consider that one hundred and eighty-seven mercenaries under the strange but presumably gifted Col. Jean Schramme can rattle around in the eastern Congo, with nobody to say them nay. One is literally bowled over here in Kenya when one hears it said that the mercenaries could conquer the whole of the Congo if they thought it worth-while to take the extreme risk of having to rule it once it had been won.

All of this has a bearing on the Communist attempts to win Africa. Isn't it clearly beyond the power of either Moscow or Peking to take over this incredibly diversified continent?

AN "A" FOR imagination goes to the Columbus, Ohio, kid who was caught digging a big hole in his mother's prize garden. "What are you doing there?" cried the horrified mother. The kid answered, "I'm letting some of the dark out of the ground!"

Abercrombie's new wife was a dream girl in every respect save one: when she lost her temper she would bawl him out for a full ten minutes, blaming him for everything from the Black Hole of Calcutta to the Israeli-Arab confrontation. What made all this particularly embarrassing to poor Abercrombie was that the walls of their new apartment were paper-thin and he just knew that neighbors on either side were enjoying her harangues enormously. One evening, goaded to desperation, he found the way to shut her up. She had just reached the top of her form, screaming like a banshee, when Abercrombie clapped a hand across her mouth and shouted at the top of his lungs, "If you don't shut up IMMEDIATELY, I swear I'll never marry you."

She's been meek and quiet as a turtle dove ever since—at least, in the apartment.

Famed symphony conductor Leopold Stokowski points out, "A painter paints his pictures on canvas—but musicians paint their pictures on silence. Our orchestras provide the music. See that you concert-goers provide the silence!"

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What accounts for the severe sense of weakness that follows an attack of flu even if it is a mild case?

Physicians are always amazed by the severe sense of weakness that follows a simple cold, grippé, the flu and even a relatively minor operation. They describe the condition as post-infectious asthenia. This weakness after an infection can sometimes last for weeks. Actually, it is the body's wisdom requesting an adequate period of time for recovery before going back to full scale activity.

I have known patients who after a three-day bout of fever got up for a half-hour and were barely able to return to bed because they were so tired. They had a complete loss of energy and felt limp and enervated to the point of despair.

These symptoms of weakness should be respected. An extra few days of rest insure complete return to health. Doctors very often prescribe a high protein diet and amino acid medications to give the patients a more rapid source of energy.

With drugs and rest the convalescent period can always be shortened. It is impossible to rush the recovery period without doing the body an injustice.

What makes some people heal with scars that have a thick, unpleasant look?

The way a scar heals is very complex. Much is known about how a wound heals and much is still to be learned about this remarkable mechanism.

Some wounds heal with a very fine scar, other heal with a wide scar and still others heal with a thickened keloid scar. A wound that is infected almost never heals with a fine line. An uninfected wound may heal in a barely perceptible way.

There are some people who have a tendency to keloid formation. Many explanations have been offered for the marked thickening of the scars, but none have been entirely satisfactory.

When a patient is known to have a tendency toward keloid scar formation, some special care can be taken to try to avoid it. Some surgeons have used small amounts of X-ray therapy directly to the wound incision in order to reduce the amount of keloid formation.

New studies are being made at the present time to seek a basic reason for unsightly keloid scars that occur in some families. The present scientific work holds forth a promise

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Monday, when Thurgood Marshall took his seat on the U.S. Supreme Court, would have seemed tremendous at some other time, for Marshall is the son of a sleeping-car porter and great-grandson of a slave.

Just 14 years ago it is unlikely any president would have dared to name a Negro to the court which then still clung to its 1896 ruling that segregation, making Negroes second-class citizens, was constitutional.

But 13 years ago there would have been no reason for a president to hesitate. It was on May 17, 1954 that the court abandoned its old opinion and declared that segregation is by its very nature unconstitutional.

It was Marshall, more than any single man in America, who made possible this victory, which threw open the gates of the nation for the Negroes, although the gates are still far from wide open.

If at that time Marshall had been appointed to the court no doubt Negroes all over America would have looked upon him as a saint, the hero of their race. But those 13 years have been a long time in Negro America.

Marshall is a man dedicated to reason and justice under law which is no longer enough for the Negro extremists who have sprung up since 1954, screaming violence and preaching "Black Power" without ever saying what they have in mind.

This American society often hypocritical about democracy while preaching and proclaiming it, has had to melt its religious and racial bigotry a step at a time.

The nation was 47 years old before the first Catholic—Roger B. Taney, who later became a chief justice—was appointed to the Supreme Court in 1336. Five more Catholics have been on the court since.

The nation was 127 years old before the first Jew, Louis B. Brandeis, was made a justice in 1916. Since then four other Jews have been appointed to the court.

And Monday, with the country 178 years old, Marshall was the first Negro given a seat beside the other eight justices.

Marshall went to work for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People as chief counsel. By then the NAACP had decided to fight that old 1896 segregation decision, step by painful step.

The long grind went on. In case after case, winning as he went, Marshall got the court to knock out various forms of segregation, as in interstate buses and graduate schools.

But the court still wouldn't declare all segregation wrong. To get the court to do that, Marshall had to take his final, most tremendous move with a case involving segregation in public schools. And he won in 1954.

In the years since then, Negroes' demands for an end to discrimination in every walk of American life intensified.

Thanks to the victory Marshall won they were now free to agitate peacefully and demonstrate in front of the very police officers who, before 1954, would have shut them up fast, jailed them, and no doubt wrecked their spirit.

As white America yielded slowly, or refused to listen, the Negro extremists moved in, appealing not to Negroes' minds but to their emotions, whipping many into a mood of desperation, irresponsibility, and riots.

Marshall, who looks to a future orderly America, said when sworn in as a justice: "I am greatly honored. Let me take this opportunity to affirm my deep faith in this nation and its people and to pledge that I shall be ever mindful of my obligation to the Constitution and to the goal of equal justice under law."

For a statement like that, the Negro extremists are probably calling him Uncle Tom without having brains enough to realize that if it hadn't been for his victory 13 years ago they wouldn't dare open their mouths now.

A Brutal Film?

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How brutal can a film be? The test of man's inhumanity to the movie goer will soon be made with a new Paramount release called "Penthouse."

The British-made film has been raising the hackles of previewers in Europe and America. Some claim it to be a masterpiece, some call it an atrocity. No one seems neutral.

All this delights Peter Collinson, who wrote "Penthouse" and directed it at a cost of $100,000. He has attended previews of the film in various parts of the world and was in Hollywood for a two-day visit, his first to America.

"In Berlin the audience was with the picture all the way," he reported, "and when I came on the stage, they rose in a body and cheered me. In Paris and New York it was a different story. At about one-third of the way through the picture, we start getting walkouts. People leave the theater muttering that the film is black, sick and obscene. In an audience of a thousand, usually 20 or 30 leave."

"Penthouse" concerns a married man having an adulterous affair in a London apartment. Posing as meter readers, two thugs enter and commit all kinds of indignities against the illicit pair.

Britain's censor John Trevelyan read the original play and decreed that a film version could not be approved.

"But I went ahead and made it anyway," said Collinson, a quiet-spoken, tallish man of 28 with a mod shock of blond hair. "After Trevelyan saw it, he did a remarkable thing. He said he would approve the film—if I could get a major company to release it. He didn't want it shown in cheap exploitation theaters."

"That was fine with me. I would rather that the picture not be seen, rather than have it flung around in backstreet theaters."

Collinson had no trouble finding a backer. After one showing at Cannes, the major companies bid eagerly for "Penthouse." He chose Paramount.

"Actually the film isn't violent at all," he remarked. "The only piece of violence comes when one of the boys stamps on the hand of one of his victims."

"Otherwise there is no violence—only the possibility of violence. And that can be more frightening. It is much more chilly to watch a couple of marauders go quietly insane than to have them become violent."

Does "Penthouse" really have a purpose?

"Certainly," Collinson insisted. "It is a statement about society today. The man is doing wrong by having an affair. The two invaders argue that they have just as much right to have the girl as he does. In the end he has the opportunity to turn them into the authorities. But he doesn't because it would be a disgrace to him before his family and associates."

Many Subjects Discussed by Monrovia GC

Members of the Monrovia Garden Club met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Charles A. Fleming with 22 members answering roll call by telling about a new flower they grew and the results.

Mrs. Russell Beckett, president, opened the meeting with devotions led by Mrs. E. L. Sheets. She used autumn as her theme and read a poem, "My Garden" followed by prayer and the "Lord's Prayer"

The secretary, Mrs. Fleming, read the secretary's report and also a "thank you" note from Mrs. Marguerite Snyder for the flowers and cards she had received while she was in the hospital. Mrs. John O'Day gave the financial report and Mrs. Joe Sheets reported on the Garden Club Float which will be entered in the Pumpkin Show parade.

Mrs. Ernestine Dudson made a flower arrangement to be displayed at the meeting the title being "The Last Rose of Summer." She used an old fashioned lantern with a large peace rose in the center surrounded by fire thorn berries and foliage.

Mrs. Allen Follrod, therapy chairman, reported on the therapy program at the Orient State School and set the date of Oct. 26, for club members to put on a therapy program.

Mrs. Martha Seibel was a guest and spoke briefly about the "Zoning" situation and urged everyone to be sure and vote at the coming election.

The group voted to make Mrs. Kenneth Gossard an honorary member as she had withdrawn from the club due to ill health. In the absence of the guest speaker, Franz Van Der Ton, Mrs. Georgia Dick showed many of his beautiful slides on tulips and other bulbs imported from Holland. Mrs. Turney Sheets was a guest of the club and showed slides she had taken at Expo '67 at Montreal Canada and gave a talk about each slide.

Mrs. Georgia Dick, Mrs. Bruce Cochran and Mrs. Joe Sheets will appear on a radio program at WCHO in Washington, C. H. on Friday. Their topic will be "Mums' Care and Planting." The plant, bulb and seed exchange was shared by all members.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Fleming assisted by Mrs. Lewis Seymour and Mrs. Ernestine Dudson.

The next meeting will feature a Workshop at the Five Points Methodist Church social rooms with Don Mortenson, instructor on Bonsai. Each member to bring a container and material to work with.

Capital University Mothers Will Meet

The Capital University Mother's Club will hold its October meeting and tea at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 13, on the mezzanine of the new Campus Center.

Devotions will be given by Mrs. Leonard Ludwig.

The program will be under the direction of international students who will speak about their native countries and present special music.

Social chairmen are Mrs. C. E. Balz, Mrs. R. H. Bohl, Mrs. Edward Klopfer, and Mrs. Ted P. Lancia.

Mothers of new students attending Capital University for the first time are urged to attend the meeting and are welcome to become members of the organization.

Apricot nectar and ginger ale make a good non-alcoholic party punch if you add lemon juice to perk up flavor. The punch may be tinted with a little red food coloring and be served over a ring of ice in an attractive large bowl. Use an ordinary ring mold to freeze water for the ice.

MOUNTAIN DEWERS — Appropriately dressed for the Mountain Dew Dance held Saturday at the Pickaway Country Club are chairmen for the event (from the left) Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Osborne and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Huffer.

Ever sprinkle strips of bacon with light brown sugar before baking or broiling?

Salt and fatty foods left on silverware overnight can cause pits that are hard to remove, so wash your silver as soon as possible after each meal. Use hot soapy, soft water, rinse well in hot clean water and dry thoroughly. Let it breathe in the air on a soft cloth before you store it. Avoid ordinary tarnish by storing silver flatware in an anti-tarnish chest between uses. Wrap larger pieces of silver tableware in non-tarnish paper or bags or store them in drawers lined with similar material. The silver particles of the fabric absorb tarnish.

When you use up the last of the glue, wash the bottle and its cap and refill with water. This makes a wonderful gadget for sealing envelopes and moistening stamps and labels.

Keep your garden tools free of rust with a small putty knife. It quickly cleans each tool of dirt. When the season ends, coat them with a mixture of oil and kerosene kept in a coffee can with a small paint brush.

Find cleaning your oven racks too much of a chore? Soak them in a tub full of soft, hot water overnight, suggests The Lindsay Company, manufacturer of automatic home water softeners. Next day rub them over with a steel pad to clean them easily.

If there's no one to help you zip the zipper on the back of your dress, try this. Slip a string through the hole in the zipper handle and bring it over your shoulder. The zipper pulls easily.

How the Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Here's today's weather picture for Ohio:

A southwest wind continued to flow across the state, resulting in temperatures near daybreak in the 50s.

Sunny and warm weather continued over most portions of the state, and fair and mild conditions were forecast for tonight.

Highs today were in the 80s, with lows tonight in the 50s and 60s.

Thursday, an increase in cloudiness and cooler temperatures are expected.

FORECASTS

CENTRAL OHIO—Fair and mild tonight. Low mid 50s. Thursday partly cloudy and turning a little cooler, high mid 70s.

SOUTHEAST OHIO—Fair and mild tonight. Low mid 50s. Thursday mostly fair and warm. High around 80.

SOUTHWEST OHIO—Fair and mild tonight. Low mid 50s. Thursday partly cloudy and turning cooler.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Fair and mild tonight. Low in the upper 50s. Partly cloudy and windy Thursday, turning a little cooler.

OHIO—Fair and mild tonight.

Low 55-65. Partly cloudy Thursday, turning cooler northwest during the morning and southeast in the afternoon. A few showers north.

OHIO FIVE-DAY FORECAST

Temperatures will average near normal Thursday through Monday, with highs in the upper 60s north to the 70s south and lows in the 40s north to the low 50s south. Thursday will be cooler, with little change afterward. Scattered showers northeast near the end of the week will average less than two-tenths inch, otherwise little if any precipitation.

Ever make quick cheese bread? Cut a loaf of French bread into slices but not all the way through. Spread the slices with a mixture of grated cheddar cheese, mayonnaise and paprika. Bake in moderate oven on sheet of foil until very hot — 20 to 30 minutes.

Easy to make coconut custard pie: fill a baked pie shell with vanilla pudding-and-pie filling mix, but do this just before serving so the crust will stay crisp. Add a topping of toasted coconut. Good served with summer's fresh fruit — sliced pears, strawberries or blueberries.

Mrs. Marion's Sunday School Class Meets

Members of Mrs. Marion's
Sunday School Class met Monday, in the home of Mrs. Garold Crites, 211 Watt St. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Marvane Turner and Mrs. Lucille Bostwick. Devotions were lead by Mrs. Della Wertman with the group participating in questions and answers on the Bible. Mrs.
Wertman closed the devotions with a short article on the life of Peter Marshall and one of his prayers.

The Sunshine report was given by Mrs. Dwight Steele. A letter was read from Mrs. Marion, and all present signed a card to be sent to her.

Members voted to sell pecans again this year. Also to serve a wedding reception in the church social rooms Oct. 7.

Mrs. Jane Southward made an announcement about the Woman's Society of Christian Service luncheon to be held in the church Oct. 4. The project for the class at this time is to purchase new robes for the altar girls.

Mrs. Hazel Yeatts and Mrs.
Wilma Harmon were presented prizes for the games played.

Halloween decorations were used on the tables when the committee served refreshments at the close of the evening.

For the next meeting to be held Monday, the group will attend services at the church at 7:30 p.m., after which they will go to the home of Mrs. Alys about mid-October. She is from San Diego, Calif.

Many Subjects Discussed by Monrovia GC

Members of the Monrovia Garden Club met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Charles
A. Fleming with 22 members answering roll call by telling about a new flower they grew and the results.

Mrs. Russell Beckett, president, opened the meeting with devotions led by Mrs. E. L.
Sheets. She used autumn as her theme and read a poem, "My Garden" followed by prayer and the "Lord's Prayer."

The secretary, Mrs. Fleming, read the secretary's report and also a "thank you" note from Mrs. Marguerite Snyder for the flowers and cards she had received while she was in the hospital. Mrs. John O'Day gave the financial report and Mrs.
Joe Sheets reported on the Garden Club Float which will be entered in the Pumpkin Show parade.

Mrs. Ernestine Dudle son made a flower arrangement to be displayed at the meeting the title being "The Last Rose of Summer." She used an old fashioned lantern with a large peace rose in the center surrounded by fire thorn berries and foilage.

Mrs. Allen Follrod, therapy chairman, reported on the therapy program at the Orient State School and set the date of Oct.
26, for club members to put on a therapy program.

Mrs. Martha Seibel was a guest and spoke briefly about the "Zoning" situation and urged everyone to be sure and vote at the coming election.

The group voted to make Mrs.
Kenneth Gossard an honorary member as she had withdrawn from the club due to ill health.

In the absence of the guest speaker, Franz Van Der Ton, Mrs. Georgia Dick showed many of his beautiful slides on tulips and other bulbs imported from Holland. Mrs. Turney Sheets was a guest of the club and showed slides she had taken at Expo '67 at Montreal Canada and gave a talk about each slide.

Mrs. Georgia Dick, Mrs.
Bruce Cochran and Mrs. Joe Sheets will appear on a radio program at WCHO in Washington C. H. on Friday. Their topic will be "Mums' Care and Planting." The plant, bulb and seed exchange was shared by all members.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs.
Fleming assisted by Mrs. Lewis
Seymour and Mrs. Ernestine
Dudle son.

The next meeting will feature a Workshop at the Five Points Methodist Church social rooms with Don Mortenson, instructor on Bonsai. Each member to bring a container and material to work with.

Capital University Mothers Will Meet

The Capital University Mother's Club will hold its October meeting and tea at 1:30 p.m.
Oct. 13, on the mezzanine of the new Campus Center.

Devotions will be given by Mrs. Leonard Ludwig.

The program will be under the direction of international students who will speak about their native countries and present special music.

Hostesses for the meeting are Mrs. Luther Byrd and Mrs.
Ralph Leesberg.

Social chairmen are Mrs. C.
E. Balz, Mrs. R. H. Bohl, Mrs.
Edward Klopfer, and Mrs. Ted
P. Lancia.

Mothers of new students attending Capital University for the first time are urged to attend the meeting and are welcome to become members of the organization.

Guest Speaker Slated by Pickaway CGC

Mrs. James Irwin, newly installed president of the Pickaway County Garden Club, will open the new year of club activities with two meetings on Tuesday. One will be a workshop and the other will depict entries for the Flower Show at the Pumpkin Show.

Beginning 1 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Alden B. Bray, 346 Meadow Lane, a workshop will be conducted under the direction of Mrs. Sally Mikawa of Columbus.

Mrs. Mikawa earned a masters degree in the Sonu School of Japanese arranging in Japan and has recently returned from a trip to Japan with many new ideas and a variety of containers.

Members are requested to make reservations with Mrs.
Ned Harden at 474-4726, as flowers will be furnished. They also are asked to bring a bottle and a low container for an arrangement with water.

Mrs. Robert McCoy, 382 Meadow Lane, will be hostess for the 8 p.m. session in her home.

Mrs. Mikawa will demonstrate and lecture on arrangements. She will also comment on those made in the afternoon which will be on display.

A short business meeting will follow the talk by Mrs. Mikawa.
Members are asked to note the changes made from the letter they recently received.

Guild 21 Will Meet

Berger Hospital Guild 21 will meet 8 p.m. Monday in the home of Mrs. Charles G. Smith, 145 Montclair Ave.

WANTS LBJ TO STEP ASIDE—Los Angeles clothing maker Harry Roth holds his full page "open letter" advertisement in The New York Times urging President Johnson to step aside in favor of a successor who might end the Vietnam fighting. He suggests Sen. J. William Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat. Roth pledges a $100,000 campaign donation. On Roth's desk you can see an autographed photo of President Johnson.

Current VC Action Hints Of Strategy Used by Mao

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The military situation in the northern part of South Vietnam raises a possibility that the Communists are pushing stacks of blue chips into a gamble to produce a situation not entirely unlike that of 1954.

Communist strategists in North Vietnam may be tempted to think in terms of 13 years back, when France was in political uproar over the Vietnam conflict. It took one spectacular strategic defeat at Dien Bien Phu to shatter the morale of the French colonial power.

In Con Thien this week Peter Arnett of The Associated Press found a belief among U.S. Marine officers that Communists in that area had succeeded in one of their objectives: to draw U.S. forces away from the main thrust of the war. That thrust was toward destruction of the Viet Cong infrastructure and establishment of road and village security.

To do it, the Communists wheeled up enormous firepower to the Bien Hai River border. From that sanctuary they poured murderous fire on U.S. positions in the 1st Corps area.

Responding, the Americans had to move up reinforcements. The strategic thinking of Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap is discernible. Giap, who masterminded the French debacle at Dien Bien Phu, learned his "people's war" at Yenan from Mao Tse-tung in the 1930s. The idea of the sudden, decisive, morale-shattering victory springs from China's Mao.

"To wound all the 10 fingers of a man is not so effective as to chop one of them off," Mao advised. "To rout 10 of the enemy's divisions is not so effective as to annihilate one of them."

When the time comes for the annihilating blow, emphasis is placed on conventional war and guerrilla warfare is coordinated with it, wrote Mao.

Mao's instructions were to "lure the enemy to penetrate deep," always "choose conditions favorable to ourselves and unfavorable to the enemy," induce the enemy to "commit mistakes when he is worn out physically and mentally" from protracted war. Among the enemy mistakes, Mao counseled, would be piecemeal reinforcement and dispersion of main forces. Then, at the proper moment, after long stalemate, "people's war" forces should pass over to the offensive.

To Giap's way of thinking, the reinforced Marines at Con Thien, despite their modern weapons and air power, could be a likely target for fashioning something in the nature of a new Dien Bien Phu.

Soviet Newspaper Attacks U.S. Missile Plans

MOSCOW (AP) — Izvestia pressed today a cautious Soviet campaign attacking the U.S. decision to go ahead with building a $5-billion antiballistic missile defense system.

The Soviet government newspaper approvingly quoted U.N. "corridor" conversations and U.S. newspaper editorials expressing fear "that the decision of the government opens up a new round of the arms race."

Y.U. Barsukov and S. Zykov, U.N. correspondents for Izvestia, said U.N. circles are worried that the U.S. go-ahead will influence talks on disarmament and "in particular the treaty on nonproliferation" of nuclear weapons.

The two correspondents did not attack the U.S. decision directly, but said the United Nations should make progress on various disarmament proposals.

The Izvestia article did not report that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said the U.S. system was designed primarily against possible missile attack from Red China, not the Soviet Union.

Izvestia also made no mention of a standing U.S. proposal for U.S.-Soviet talks on ways to avoid building missile defense systems.

The Changing World Scene: Oddities in Week's News

NEW YORK (AP) — It was that kind of a week. President Johnson took to the golf course for the first time in months and sliced his first drive into an adjoining fairway. He got a Mulligan. The President told intimates he planned to take up golf again and abandon alcohol, which means he will play only 18 holes and skip the 19th. The nation's capital is on an exercise kick. Senate Democrats defeated Senate Republicans in a challenge tennis match, 2-1. Only proving in this pre-election year that the Democrats have better lady-like forehands but the Republicans have knobbier knees. And the White House had to deny a report that those coats found in movie star George Hamilton's abandoned $27,000 Rolls-Royce in Kingman, Ariz., belonged to Lynda Bird. George later said they were his.

Brown's Lawyers Plans Strategy To Halt Extradition

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Attorneys for H. Rap Brown plan to launch a new court bid to block extradition of the Black Power firebrand to Cambridge, Md., where he faces charges of inciting to riot and inciting to arson.

Brown was scheduled to appear today in Alexandria Corporation Court. His attorneys indicated they would attack on constitutional grounds the extradition order by Virginia Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr.

Brown was arrested July 26 by Virginia State Police on a federal fugitive warrant. The warrant was sworn out following July 24 rioting in Cambridge, where a school and other buildings were burned.

Brown, chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, had spoken to a large crowd of Negroes shortly before the rioting erupted.

Philip J. Hirschkop of Alexandria, one of Brown's attorneys, has said he'll contend the Black Power leader's arrest was illegal because it was made by state police as Brown stood on federal property—the steps of the Alexandria post office.

Hirschkop also indicated he would argue that Brown can't get a fair trial in Maryland.

10 YEARS IN SPACE AGE

First U.S. astronaut to orbit, John Glenn, February 1962, four hours, 55 minutes.

First Soviet cosmonaut to orbit, Yuri Gagarin, April 1961, one hour, 48 minutes.

First U.S. space walker, Edward H. White, June 1965, out of capsule 23 minutes.

First Soviet space walker, Alexei Leonov, March 1965, out of capsule 10 minutes.

THE BIG NEWS these spacemen made with "firsts" for their countries is recalled as the space age marks its first decade.

In Miami, the zoo reported the birth of an aardvark, which shouldn't cause any earth tremors except it was the first of the funny-snouted animals born in captivity in the United States and the second in the world (the only other was at Frankfurt, Germany, in 1912). The aardvark, apparently because of his looks, is a night animal and quite timid, refusing to breed behind bars. The same theory, in effect, was expounded by psychologist James Hemming of Britain's official Marriage Guidance Council, who said formal marriage was going out of style and should be only "a social statement of intent when the partners desire it." In Philadelphia, a bashful English teacher proposed to his girl through the want ad section. She met him after work with the query: "Honey, what took you so long?"

Modern science: Moscow announced the introduction of color television but there was just one flaw. No color sets were on sale. The Russians could only make enough for public places. Plumbing leaks, like you have in your bath room, have delayed Uncle Sam's latest shot at the moon. In San Jose, Calif., a crane had to be summoned to lift Betsy the Cow out of a 30 foot well where she tumbled when boards gave way. In Germany when you say, "Go fly a kite" you have to add, "and get a license." Bonn said it planned to license kits to protect air safety.

It wasn't a good week for animals or their friends. A nanny goat got mixed up with some prized beef cattle in an Abilene auction and was sold and re-sold 31 times. A Covina, Calif., man saved a dog's life by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, only to be bitten four times. A bitter, a long-legged, long-beaked bird that summers in Canada, got arrested on a stop-over in Chicago. But the cops didn't know what it was and couldn't book him.

The military situation in the northern part of South Vietnam raises a possibility that the Communists are pushing stacks of blue chips into a gamble to produce a situation not entirely unlike that of 1954.

Communist strategists in North Vietnam may be tempted to think in terms of 13 years back, when France was in political uproar over the Vietnam conflict. It took one spectacular strategic defeat at Dien Bien Phu to shatter the morale of the French colonial power.

State Lets Contracts for Highway Jobs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state highway Department opened bids Tuesday on projects with a state estimated cost of $7.1 million. Low bids for the work totaled $6.6 million.

Funds approved by the voters in the 1964 highway bond issue finance the largest projects. Apparent low bidder for the project situated in Hamilton and Butler counties was Don S. Cisle Contractors of Hamilton. The contract includes the construction of two bridges and paving 3.4 miles of U. S. 27 north from County line.

The $2.7 million project is scheduled for completion in September, 1969. The Cisle bid was $2,798,866 against the state estimate of $3,113,500.

Bids on other major projects: BUTLER—Paving, widening, resurfacing and constructing a new bridge on 1.52 miles of Ohio 177; apparent low bid Walter L. Follmer, Hamilton $789,791; state estimate $708,390.

MIAMI—Widening, resurfacing, bridge repair and constructing five new bridges on 1.18 miles of Interstate 75 and Ohio 55; apparent low bid Ober Construction Co., Dayton, $1,558,767; state estimate $1,665,000.

SUMMIT—Shoulder improvement on Ohio 3 and Interstate 77; apparent low bid W. G. Lockhart Construction Co., Akron, $328,511; state estimate $362,000.

MORGAN—Paving, constructing one bridge on .48 of a mile of Ohio 37 and Ohio 60; apparent low bid W. M. Brode Co., Newcomerstown, $778,703; state estimate $882,200.

OTTAWA—Widening, resurfacing .25 of a mile of Ohio 2; Peerless Construction Co., Fremont, $109,852; state estimate $104,000.

The Changing World Scene: Oddities in Week's News

NEW YORK (AP) — It was that kind of a week. President Johnson took to the golf course for the first time in months and sliced his first drive into an adjoining fairway. He got a Mulligan. The President told intimates he planned to take up golf again and abandon alcohol, which means he will play only 18 holes and skip the 19th. The nation's capital is on an exercise kick. Senate Democrats defeated Senate Republicans in a challenge tennis match, 2-1. Only proving in this pre-election year that the Democrats have better lady-like forehands but the Republicans have knobbier knees. And the White House had to deny a report that those coats found in movie star George Hamilton's abandoned $27,000 Rolls-Royce in Kingman, Ariz., belonged to Lynda Bird. George later said they were his.

In Miami, the zoo reported the birth of an aardvark, which shouldn't cause any earth tremors except it was the first of the funny-snouted animals born in captivity in the United States and the second in the world (the only other was at Frankfurt, Germany, in 1912). The aardvark, apparently because of his looks, is a night animal and quite timid, refusing to breed behind bars. The same theory, in effect, was expounded by psychologist James Hemming of Britain's official Marriage Guidance Council, who said formal marriage was going out of style and should be only "a social statement of intent when the partners desire it". In Philadelphia, a bashful English teacher proposed to his girl through the want ad section. She met him after work with the query: "Honey, what took you so long?"

Modern science: Moscow announced the introduction of color television but there was just one flaw. No color sets were on sale. The Russians could only make enough for public places. Plumbing leaks, like you have in your bath room, have delayed Uncle Sam's latest shot at the moon. In San Jose, Calif., a crane had to be summoned to lift Betsy the Cow out of a 30 foot well where she tumbled when boards gave way. In Germany when you say, "Go fly a kite" you have to add, "and get a license." Bona said it planned to license kits to protect air safety.

It wasn't a good week for animals or their friends. A nanny goat got mixed up with some prized beef cattle in an Abilene auction and was sold and re-sold 31 times. A Covina, Calif., man saved a dog's life by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, only to be bitten four times. A bitter, a long-legged, long-beaked bird that summers in Canada, got arrested on a stop-over in Chicago. But the cops didn't know what it was and couldn't book him.

ABC Files Suit Against AFTRA Chief

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co. has filed a $2 million damage suit against Mel Brandt, president of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA), which has ordered its members not to cross picket lines of striking ABC technicians.

The suit, filed Tuesday in the New York State Supreme Court, also sought an injunction restraining AFTRA from persuading ABC employees "to violate any employment contract" under threat of facing disciplinary action by the union.

About 1,500 technicians—members of the AFL-CIO National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians—have been on strike against the ABC television and radio networks since Sept. 22 in a contract dispute.

In Los Angeles, one of five cities where NABET is on strike and picketing, Superior Court Judge Ralph Nutter on Tuesday granted ABC a temporary restraining order prohibiting AFTRA from refusing to allow its members to cross the picket lines.

Papers in the suit said ABC has a written agreement in Los Angeles with AFTRA that its members will not strike, picket or boycott the company.

Nutter scheduled a hearing for next Tuesday. At that time, AFTRA is to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent.

In the suit filed in New York, ABC said AFTRA's acts applied to members with individual contracts with the company and "constitute intentional and malicious interference."

No date for a hearing on the suit was set.

Members of AFTRA include performers, announcers, newscasters and disc jockeys.

Despite the order from AFTRA, an increasing number of its members have been returning to work at ABC here. A number of them have said that individual contracts required them to work.

Negotiations between ABC and NABET, with the help of federal mediators, were recessed Tuesday with no report of progress and no new talks scheduled. The technicians struck after rejecting an ABC offer of an increase in average weekly pay from $218 to $252. The union demanded $275.

Woman Publisher Under Arrest for Insulting Junta

ATHENS (AP) — The Greek military government today placed under house arrest Mrs. Helen Vlachou, the newspaper publisher charged with insulting the junta. She was the second prominent Greek ordered confined this week.

Deposed Premier Panayiotis Kanellopoulos was placed under guard in his home Monday night after he twice denounced the five-month-old government.

A man in civilian clothes, assumed to be a member of the Greek security police, stopped visitors as they tried to enter Mrs. Vlachou's apartment, telling them, "Mrs. Vlachou will see no one today." A source close to the 56-year-old publisher said, "Her house and papers are being searched by police and her telephone has been cut."

A phone call to her house, a block from the palace of King Constantine, brought no response.

Mrs. Vlachou was charged with insulting the junta after she was quoted as calling the ruling officers "mediocre and ignorant people" in an interview with the Turin newspaper La Stampa.

Mrs. Vlachou ceased publication of her two conservative newspapers, Kathimerini and Messimvri, to protest the army's April 21 coup d'etat.

She was arrested on the defamation charge last Thursday but was released after four hours of questioning for a trial at an unspecified date.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Howard J. Samuels, 47, general manager of the Mobil Oil Company's plastics division, has been nominated for the post of undersecretary of the commerce, a position vacant for a year.

Samuels, the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor of New York in 1966, was tapped for the Commerce Department job by President Johnson. The nomination requires Senate confirmation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A silver Jerusalem Bible and other rare works on biblical and Jewish themes have been presented to President Johnson on the eve of the Jewish New Year 5728.

The books are to go to the Lyndon Baines Johnson Library at the University of Texas.

The President accepted the books from Herman L. Weisman, president of the Jewish National Fund of America; Dr. Milton Aron and James Novy, fund officers.

WASHINGTON (AP) — "If I were a praying man, I'd pray for you," Eric Hoffer, a San Francisco longshoreman, author and social philosopher told President Johnson.

Hoffer, regarded as an authority on mass movements as typified in his book, "The True Believer," wore heavy work shoes and informal clothing as he sat in a wicker chair on the White House lawn and traded stories with the President about dogs, grandchildren and previous occupants of the Executive Mansion.

Although he still works on the docks, Hoffer devotes much of his time to writing. He was in Washington to speak at the U.S. Foreign Service Institute.

Try To Avert OSU Strike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Union and Ohio State University officials were to meet today in what the union indicated was the school's last chance to head off a strike by 1,600 non-teaching employees Thursday morning.

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees said that unless progress were made at today's talks, university warnings that strikers would be fired under Ohio's anti-strike law were not enough to alter their walkout plans.

Federation Local 138's demands included a 10 per cent pay hike, free hospitalization and parking and free meals for food service workers.

The university said it could not meet demands for the complete package, but wanted to discuss "some issues" and school budget procedures.

President Mike Fuscardo of Local 138 said that the union wanted to discuss the "whole ball of wax" at today's meeting. He said that unless some agreement was reached, the strike would begin at midnight.

Gordon B. Carson, university vice president for business and finance, had warned all union members earlier that strikers faced dismissal under the Ferguson Act, which forbids public employee walkouts. He said the law provided that reinstated strikers would receive no raises for a year.

University officials said meeting union demands would cost $5.5 million and require boosting student fees $80 a year while also raising university hospital and activity fees.

OSU Pupils Show Mixed Reaction As Strike Looms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Student reaction to the strike threat posed by 1,600 nonacademic employees at Ohio State appears to run the gamut of labor sentiment.

There's even expressed detachment in the matter on the 40,000 student campus.

"The administration is not trying much arbitration," said 22-year-old Joel Feinberg of Columbus when asked for an opinion. "It's just letting them strike. Yet how will they run the school? How can an administrator operate a furnace?"

Pattie Turley, an 18-year-old Columbus coed majoring in education, feels the university shouldn't consider raising tuition fees to alleviate the situation. "But they (union members) have the right to strike," she said.

To Barbara M. Rosenfeld, 20, a junior journalism major from Buffalo, N. Y., the situation is "a pain in the neck. Why can't they settle it? If they close the school, I won't graduate on time. Why can't the school pay?"

Why isn't the state giving more money?

But to 18-year-old Carl Bersenbruegge, Cincinnati, the non-teaching employees don't have such bad working conditions here. I worked in a grocery that was a lot worse—it's not really as bad as they think."

A more detached view came from Bernard Ventre, 24, of Syracuse, N.Y.:

"I can't complain—I'm in my last quarter," grinned the senior economics major.

The non-teaching workers, members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, said unless agreement was reached today they would strike tonight.

University officials have said school operations would continue if the walk-out occurred.

Sputnik 1 Launched 10 Years Ago; Russia Still No. 1 Space Pioneer

By ANTHONY C. COLLINGS
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Ten years ago today a silver ball with four whisker-like antennas became the first manmade object to orbit the earth. It was Sputnik 1, and its launching by the Russians opened the Space Age.

Since then, the Soviet Union has continued to pioneer major space developments, from launching the first man in space to achieving the first soft landing of an unmanned craft on the moon.

Not far behind, the United States has matched and then surpassed most Soviet feats.

America also has to its credit man's first rendezvous and locking of spaceships in orbit.

Unlike the United States, Russia has apparently gambled on a few giant strides forward, rather than many small, cautious ones.

In 1961 cosmonaut Yuri V. Gagarin rode a Vostok (East) spaceship for one orbit of the earth to become the first man in space.

This feat was followed by five more Vostok flights, the last the 1963 venture of Valentina Nikolayeva-Tereshkova, the world's only woman cosmonaut.

After an unexplained pause of 16 months, the Soviets leaped

Student Commended For Test Results

A Letter of Commendation has been awarded to a Circleville High School student for her high performance on the 1967 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Paul Sarchet, CHS principal, listed the commended student as Donna E. Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cole, 670 Ridgewood Drive.

She is among 40,000 students in the United States who scored in the upper two per cent of those who will graduate from high school in 1968.

The commended students rank just below the 14,000 semifinalists announced last month by the NMSC.

ahead from one-man shots to the launching of a three-man Voskhod (Sunrise) spacecraft in October 1964.

Instead of repeating this feat, the Russians jumped ahead to another first: the March 1965 space walk in which Alexei A. Leovov left his woman spaceship and stepped into space for 10 minutes.

The Soviets waited then more than two years before attempting another manned launching.

The long pause suggested they were preparing for another spectacular accomplishment, possibly involving a new generation of spaceships that were bigger, more sophisticated and manned by larger crews.

Says Current Welfare Programs Not Effective

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Leon H. Keyserling, economist and lawyer, says present welfare programs won't help many poor people because "too many cooks are spoiling the soup."

Keyserling, an economic adviser to the president during Harry S. Truman's administration, told the Missouri Association for Social Work:

"The welfare program is inefficient and useless and the whole present program degrading and bankrupt. There should be one program, by the federal government with a guaranteed income, through work or no work."

Whatever was planned, something went wrong.

The Soviets reported only that a new craft, Soyuz 1, crashed

Laser Tracks Satellites

LAS CRUCES, N. M. (AP) — Scientists are using the intense light of a laser to help the National Aeronautics and Space Administration determine the exact orbits of satellites.

The beam of the laser (which stands for light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation) is projected to the satellite overhead and is reflected by the satellite to a receiver at the station.

By measuring the time it takes the beam, traveling at 186,000 miles per second, to reach the satellite and return, the distance to the orbiting body can be determined.

Two other stations using the technique are in North Carolina and in France.

Science Center Opens

CLEVELAND (AP) — A $1.3 million life and earth sciences building and a $315,000 health center will be dedicated at Baldwin-Wallace College Oct. 19, the school's 122nd founder's day anniversary.

The three-story sciences building will have lecture facilities, conference rooms, laboratories, a greenhouse and a weather station. The health center will have beds for 14 patients in its infirmary.

after 24 hours of orbiting last April, killing cosmonaut Vladimir M. Komarov.

Russia's unmanned Luna 9 last year became the first spacecraft to land intact on the moon and send television pictures of the moon's surface back to earth.

Some observers, noting Russia's preference for space spectacles that bring prestige, speculate that the Soviets may next try to orbit a manned spacecraft around the moon, without landing, and return it to earth.

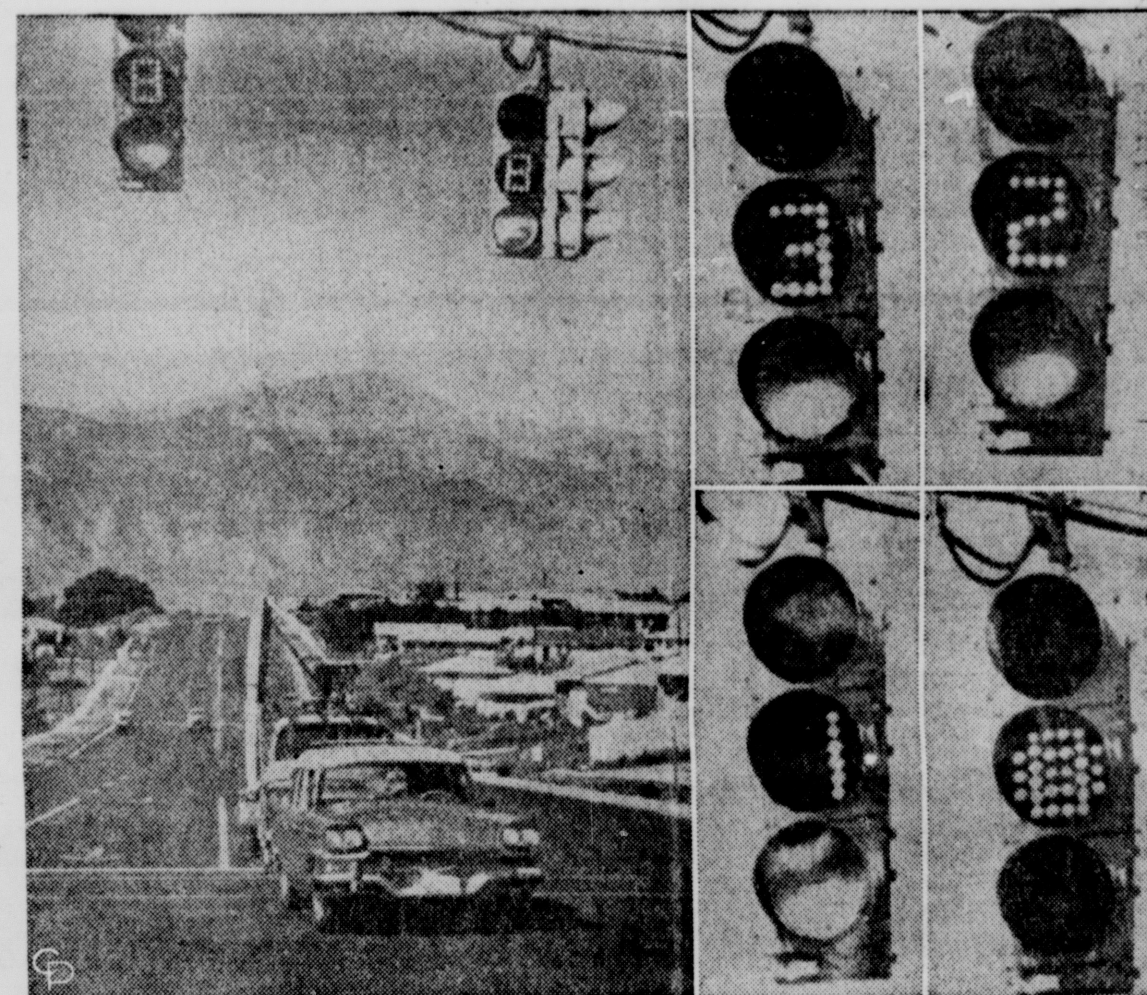

From the propaganda point of view, the most obvious time would be just before the Nov. 7 celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

U. of C. Announces New Resident Tower

CINCINNATI (AP) — Plans to build a 23-story residential tower for 600 men and 600 women at the University of Cincinnati were announced Tuesday by UC officials.

The building to be completed by 1970 might even have as many as 26 stories and will be the tallest building on the campus — at least seven stories higher than the 16-story Brodie Science Research Tower now under construction.

The structure will also be the university's first coeducational dormitory and will have separate entrances and elevators for men and women.

Prof Hits Jackpot With Stamp Machine

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — The stamp-vending machine in the post office lobby is no gambling device—but it recently gave up a fat jackpot.

David Russell, professor of education at Pennsylvania State University, inserted a dime for a two four-centers. He got the stamps but no change. A second dime produced the same results so he gave the machine a sharp rap—and 40 pennies tumbled out.

So the professor took the four cents due him, and mailed the rest to Postmaster Edgar Benner.

Russell didn't put any stamp on the envelope. It came to Benner with 25 cents postage due.

The university said it could not meet demands for the complete package, but wanted to discuss "some issues" and school budget procedures.

President Mike Fuscardo of Local 138 said that the union wanted to discuss the "whole ball of wax" at today's meeting. He said that unless some agreement was reached, the strike would begin at midnight.

Gordon B. Carson, university vice president for business and finance, had warned all union members earlier that strikers faced dismissal under the Ferguson Act, which forbids public employee walkouts. He said the law provided that reinstated strikers would receive no raises for a year.

University officials said meeting union demands would cost $5.5 million and require boosting student fees $80 a year while also raising university hospital and activity fees.

OSU Pupils Show Mixed Reaction As Strike Looms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Student reaction to the strike threat posed by 1,600 nonacademic employees at Ohio State appears to run the gamut of labor sentiment.

There's even expressed detachment in the matter on the 40,000 student campus.

"The administration is not trying much arbitration," said 22-year-old Joel Feinberg of Columbus when asked for an opinion. "It's just letting them strike. Yet how will they run the school? How can an administrator operate a furnace?"

Pattie Turley, an 18-year-old Columbus coed majoring in education, feels the university shouldn't consider raising tuition fees to alleviate the situation. "But they (union members) have the right to strike," she said.

To Barbara M. Rosenfeld, 20, a junior journalism major from Buffalo, N. Y., the situation is "a pain in the neck. Why can't they settle it? If they close the school, I won't graduate on time. Why can't the school pay?

Sputnik 1 Launched 10 Years Ago; Russia Still No. 1 Space Pioneer

By ANTHONY C. COLLINGS
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Ten years ago today a silver ball with four whisker-like antennas became the first manmade object to orbit the earth. It was Sputnik 1, and its launching by the Russians opened the Space Age.

Since then, the Soviet Union has continued to pioneer major space developments, from launching the first man in space to achieving the first soft landing of an unmanned craft on the moon.

Not far behind, the United States has matched and then surpassed most Soviet feats.

America also has to its credit man's first rendezvous and locking of spaceships in orbit.

Unlike the United States, Russia has apparently gambled on a few giant strides forward, rather than many small, cautious ones.

In 1961 cosmonaut Yuri V. Gagarin rode a Vostok (East) spaceship for one orbit of the earth to become the first man in space.

This feat was followed by five more Vostok flights, the last the 1963 venture of Valentina Nikolayeva-Tereshkova, the world's only woman cosmonaut.

After an unexplained pause of 16 months, the Soviets leaped ahead from one-man shots to the launching of a three-man Voskhod (Sunrise) spacecraft in October 1964.

Instead of repeating this feat, the Russians jumped ahead to another first: the March 1965 space walk in which Alexei A. Leovov left his woman spaceship and stepped into space for 10 minutes.

The Soviets waited then more than two years before attempting another manned launching.

The long pause suggested they were preparing for another spectacular accomplishment, possibly involving a new generation of spaceships that were bigger, more sophisticated and manned by larger crews.

Says Current Welfare Programs Not Effective

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Leon H. Keyserling, economist and lawyer, says present welfare programs won't help many poor people because "too many cooks are spoiling the soup."

Keyserling, an economic adviser to the president during Harry S. Truman's administration, told the Missouri Association for Social Work:

Student Commended For Test Results

A Letter of Commendation has been awarded to a Circleville High School student for her high performance on the 1967 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Paul Sarchet, CHS principal, listed the commended student as Donna E. Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cole, 670 Ridgewood Drive.

She is among 40,000 students in the United States who scored in the upper two per cent of those who will graduate from high school in 1968.

The commended students rank just below the 14,000 semi-finalists announced last month by the NMSC.

Why isn't the state giving more money?"

But to 18-year-old Carl Berssenbrugge, Cincinnati, the non-teaching employees don't have such bad working conditions here. I worked in a grocery that was a lot worse—it's not really as bad as they think."

A more detached view came from Bernard Ventre, 24, of Syracuse, N.Y.:

"I can't complain—I'm in my last quarter," grinned the senior economics major.

The non-teaching workers, members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal employees, said unless agreement was reached today they would strike tonight.

University officials have said school operations would continue if the walk-out occurred.

Whatever was planned, something went wrong.

Laser Tracks Satellites

LAS CRUCES, N. M. (AP) — Scientists are using the intense light of a laser to help the National Aeronautics and Space Administration determine the exact orbits of satellites.

The beam of the laser (which stands for light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation) is projected to the satellite overhead and is reflected by the satellite to a receiver at the station.

By measuring the time it takes the beam, traveling at 186,000 miles per second, to reach the satellite and return, the distance to the orbiting body can be determined.

Two other stations using the technique are in North Carolina and in France.

Science Center Opens

CLEVELAND (AP) — A $1.3 million life and earth sciences building and a $315,000 health center will be dedicated at Baldwin-Wallace College Oct. 19, the school's 122nd founder's day anniversary.

The three-story sciences building will have lecture facilities, conference rooms, laboratories, a greenhouse and a weather station. The health center will have beds for 14 patients in its infirmary.

after 24 hours of orbiting last April, killing cosmonaut Vladimir M. Komarov.

Russia's unmanned Luna 9 last year became the first spacecraft to land intact on the moon and send television pictures of the moon's surface back to earth.

Some observers, noting Russia's preference for space spectacles that bring prestige, speculate that the Soviets may next try to orbit a manned spacecraft around the moon, without landing, and return it to earth.

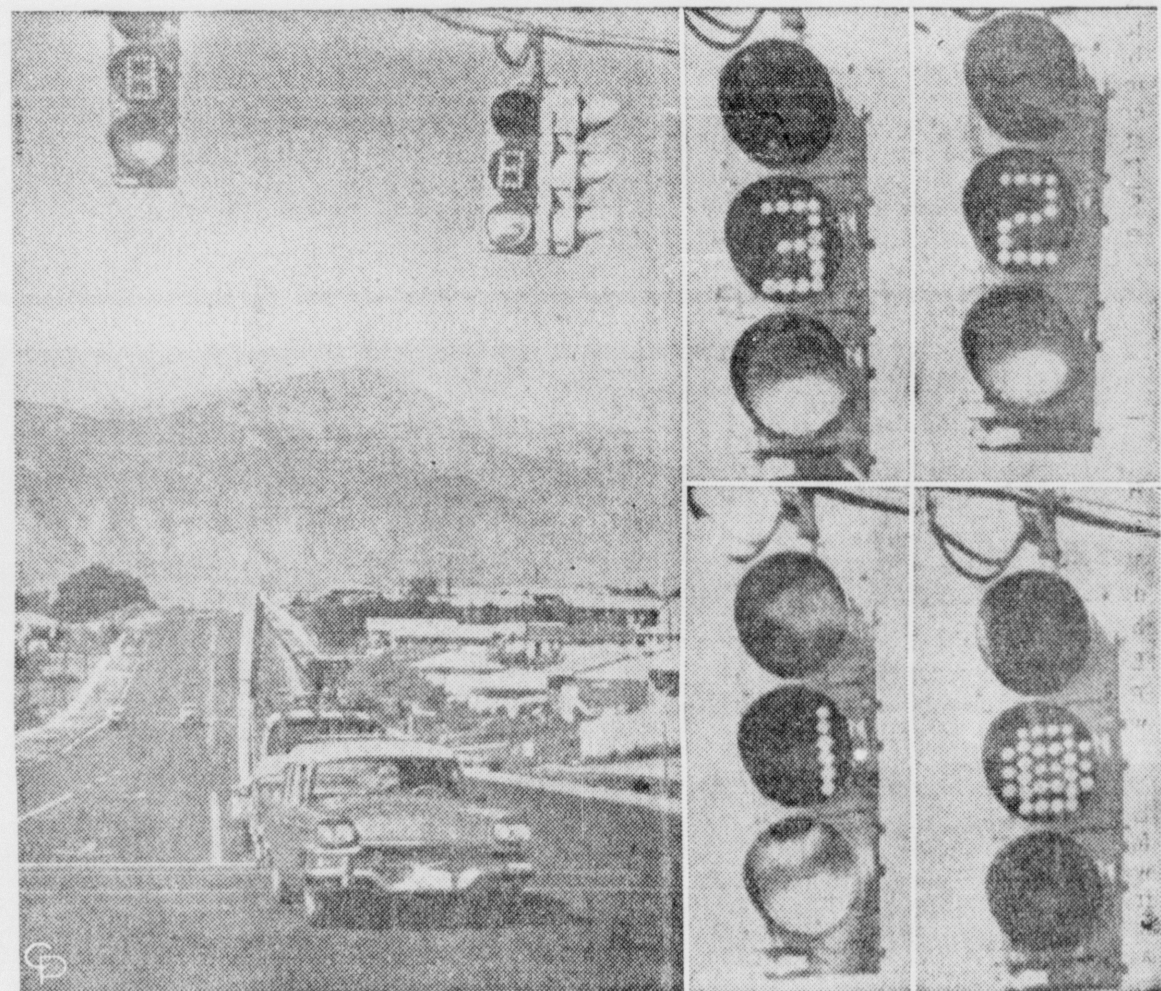

From the propaganda point of view, the most obvious thing would be just before the Nov. 7 celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

U. of C. Announces New Resident Tower

CINCINNATI (AP) — Plans to build a 23-story residential tower for 600 men and 1,600 women at the University of Cincinnati were announced Tuesday by UC officials.

The building to be completed by 1970 might even have as many as 26 stories and will be the tallest building on the campus — at least seven stories higher than the 16-story Brodie Science Research Tower now under construction.

The structure will also be the university's first educational dormitory and will have separate entrances and elevators for men and women.

COUNTDOWN TRAFFIC LIGHTS—Colorado Springs, Colo., is experimenting with these countdown traffic lights. The amber light counts down the remaining nine seconds on the green light, then a four-second caution appears. It is reported that drivers seeing the light for the first time have a tendency to become confused.

Stiff Collar Joins Hippie Movement

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gridley Wright is a Yale graduate who has been a stockbroker and a Los Angeles county probation officer.

Suddenly, at age 33, he is something else again.

And he's on trial for possessing marijuana.

Wright freely admits he uses marijuana, and the freedom with which he admits it has gotten him into his present fix. He appeared on a talk show on radio station KABC to discuss marijuana, which he contends should be legalized.

On the program, Wright allegedly admitted to being under the influence of marijuana. As he left the studio he was arrested. During the first day of his trial he threatened to light up a "joint"—a marijuana cigarette.

On the second day of his trial Tuesday the judge had him searched to find out if he had any marijuana.

Wright's strangely clad followers snickered as bailiff Rusty Burrell spent five minutes going through Wright's faded green jacket and the pockets of his plaid shirt and blue jeans.

Wright took off his boots and socks to be searched. The bailiff found no marijuana.

At one point, Wright asked that Michael Jackson, a 29-year-old Columbia University Law School graduate, be permitted to sit at the defense table and advise him.

Judge Mark Brandler denied Wright's request, then said he "wanted the record to reflect" that Jackson appeared before the bench "in a red turtleneck sweater with two strands of blue beads hanging from his neck and that he's wearing extremely long hair extending below the neck."

Judge Mark Brandler denied Wright's request, then said he "wanted the record to reflect" that Jackson appeared before the bench "in a red turtleneck sweater with two strands of blue beads hanging from his neck and that he's wearing extremely long hair extending below the neck."

Wright's strangely clad followers snickered as bailiff Rusty Burrell spent five minutes going through Wright's faded green jacket and the pockets of his plaid shirt and blue jeans.

Wright took off his boots and socks to be searched. The bailiff found no marijuana.

At one point, Wright asked that Michael Jackson, a 29-year-old Columbia University Law School graduate, be permitted to sit at the defense table and advise him.

Racism Labeled Threat to Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Infusion of the race issue into "the international class struggle" poses a growing threat to world peace, says a Swedish sociologist-economist.

Gunnar Myrdal told a conference on "The Next 50 Years" that: "There is a race angle to the relation between rich and poor countries, though most of us succeed in remaining unaware of it."

"In the world as a whole, most people are colored and poor, while the minority of people who are well off are mostly white," Myrdal said.

Myrdal is the author of "An American Dilemma." Written in the 1940s, the book is a pioneer study of the Negro in the United States.

Myrdal told the conference, sponsored by the American Institute of Planners and attended by 65 experts on science, the arts and government, that a danger sign is the increasing protest by poor nations against "racism."

In other conference talks, a city planning expert urged creation of government agencies to control land development on a regional basis and a self-styled radical activist said urban slums are America's "colonies."

Carl Feiss of Washington, former Denver city planner and now a private consultant, said agencies patterned after the Tennessee Valley Authority should be created to dictate land use.

"I would blanket the country with such mechanisms," said Feiss. "I would prepare plans within the selected areas, manage them and implement them as the TVA, and I would involve every level of government and private enterprise as has TVA."

He charged that industrial and real estate interests have "grown fat on the land and assumed no responsibility for damaging the lives of millions, born and unborn," through air and water pollution and despoilment of open land.

Carl Oglesby, a resident lecturer of Antioch College and former head of the militant Students for a Democratic Society, said urban slums have "all the basic features of the conquest and colonizing of 'savage' peoples."

Like colonized peoples, said Oglesby, slum dwellers' labor produces wealth which is spent elsewhere by the owners of urban core tenements and stores who live outside the slums.

He said it is significant this summer's Negro rioting focused more on property than on people.

Beatles Refuse $1 Million Offer

LONDON (AP) — The Beatles are not interested in an offer of $1 million for one day's work in the United States, a spokesman said today.

The reason: It would mean appearing personally at the 55,000-seat Shea Stadium in New York.

"We will definitely not accept the offer," said the spokesman. "The money doesn't matter. It is simply impossible to put across in any stadium or hall the kind of music the Beatles are playing these days."

The Beatles' current style has been described as avant garde pop, with mystical Indian overtones.

The $1 million was offered by American promoter Sidney Bernstein, now visiting London. He told reporters he believed he could fill the huge stadium for each of two Beatles' concerts in one day.

Bernstein promoted the first Beatles' tour of the United States in 1964.

More than a year ago the four Beatles quietly abandoned the frantic one-night stands that had driven teenagers around the world to hysteria and made the Beatles multimillionaires.

They have since concentrated on producing records and making television films.

Governor Approves Antipoverty Grant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has approved a $2,990 federal grant for the anti-poverty program in Columbiana County, the Ohio Office of Opportunity reported.

The grant provides for a staff of four to administer, coordinate and initiate projects designed to combat poverty in the area.

The federal government gives the grants to the Ohio Office of Opportunity which then divides it among state areas.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Whitney Museum in New York, which normally attracts about 390 visitors a day, drew crowds of 5,000 during an exhibition of paintings by Andrew Wyeth.

Wyeth, son of a famous illustrator, paints realistic portraits of rugged, grizzled men, pensive women and is particularly fond of sweeping, lonesome landscapes. That he has become a rage at a time when the avant garde of American painting is interested in the abstract, the architectural and the unemotional is the basis of an interesting mystery.

CBS News, in a half hour program Tuesday night, sought to shed a little light on what it called "The Wyth Phenomenon."

But beyond performing the happy service of showing a number of Wyeth paintings on the small screen, it was rather unsuccessful in "explaining" the artist, his work or his popularity.

Under the usual television circumstances, a program about an artist would include some of his work and feature the moments when the artist would sit down comfortably with the reporter and talk about himself and his work. But Wyeth, a middle-aged man with a sensitive face, is an intensely shy man who was of practically no use at all to the program. He does not like to talk about his paintings—and did not. There was no interview at all—only some film of him making an acceptance speech at an award dinner—and he sat down after stopping in the middle of a sentence.

Harry Reasoner, narrating the show, was left rather high and dry. He quoted the critics, pro and con. He talked with Wyeth's son, Jamie, 20, a painter of promise, whose main contribution was to state he was proud of his father and his work.

Reasoner even had to fall back on the use of anonymous voices reacting to Wyeth's work—"I think it means more than those futuristic paintings," "I love him—he's so realistic" or "They—the paintings—are all alike. I just don't think he's a 20th century artist."

Betty Furness, special assistant to President Johnson for consumer affairs, will be the guest on next Sunday's "Meet the Press" on NBC.

A third "Making of a President" program is in the works. Like the previous election year programs, it will be made by Wolper Productions with Theodore H. White doing the writing. Filming will start with the primary fights and conclude on election night more than a year hence.

1,884 Delegates Attend Convention

One of the largest religious conventions held in Circleville ended Sunday with a final throng of 1,884 delegates and observers in attendance. South Central Ohio congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses sent Bible teachers and students as representatives to the three-day autumn seminar at Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Speaking as representative for New York world headquarters of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, Mr. Andrew Laguna, spoke on "Will God Intervene in Men's Affairs?" at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Laguna announced that Kenneth M. Reed, present circuit minister, has been reassigned to similar post at Fort Wayne, Ind., and vicinity. He is to be succeeded here by Charles T. Sintuko Jr., District supervisor. Frank C. Spacil has recently been reassigned to California ministerial supervision work, while Mr. Laguna comes to Ohio as district supervisor from the Eastern Seaboard and Appalachian region.

Chairman, B. J. Lemaster, Circleville presiding minister, spoke to the hundreds of visitors who attended from Circleville and invited all to attend the next in a special series of one-hour free Bible lectures at Kingdom Hall, 229 Nicholas Drive, Circleville. The discourse will be at 4 p.m. Sunday and is entitled "God Made Out of One Man Every Nation of Men."

Ruth Lyons Xmas Fund To Open Without Her

CINCINNATI (AP) — Aveco Broadcasting of Cincinnati is going to open its traditional Christmas fund for hospitalized children today despite the absence of television personality, Ruth Lyons.

Miss Lyons, who recently retired as host of the "Fifty-Fifty Club" show she founded, will not be able to personally participate in the fund she started in 1939.

A record total of $472,000 was raised last year for the fund that is used to provide hospitalized children with holiday gifts and parties, television sets, and playroom and therapeutic equipment.

A "NUDE-IN"—Adam Feldman, wearing not a stitch, is led to a police car in San Francisco after staging a "nude-in" before some 1,000 students on the mall of San Francisco State College. Behind the plainclothesman (glasses) leading him is girlfriend Patricia Vawter, 18, who sat beside him during the "demonstration." She followed to the police car, then removed her dress, her only garment, it turned out.

Stiff Collar Joins Hippie Movement

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gridley Wright is a Yale graduate who has been a stockbroker and a Los Angeles county probation officer.

Suddenly, at age 33, he is something else again.

And he's on trial for possessing marijuana.

Wright freely admits he uses marijuana, and the freedom with which he admits it has gotten him into his present fix. He appeared on a talk show on radio station KABC to discuss marijuana, which he contends should be legalized.

On the program, Wright allegedly admitted to being under the influence of marijuana. As he left the studio he was arrested. During the first day of his trial he threatened to light up a "joint"—a marijuana cigarette.

On the second day of his trial Tuesday the judge had him searched to find out if he had any marijuana.

Wright's strangely clad followers snickered as bailiff Rusty Burrell spent five minutes going through Wright's faded green jacket and the pockets of his plaid shirt and blue jeans.

Wright took off his boots and socks to be searched. The bailiff found no marijuana.

At one point, Wright asked that Michael Jackson, a 29-year-old Columbia University Law School graduate, be permitted to sit at the defense table and advise him.

Judge Mark Brandler denied Wright's request, then said he "wanted the record to reflect" that Jackson appeared before the bench "in a red turtleneck sweater with two strands of blue beads hanging from his neck and that he's wearing extremely long hair extending below the neck."

Mechanical Trouble Foils Holdup Plans

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) Three holdup men, one of them masked, stopped William F. Lynch by ramming his car with their car at night after he closed his grocery store.

The gunmen had planned to take Lynch's money and make a fast getaway, but the cars' bumpers were locked together. Spectators began gathering, and the excited bandits finally broke their car loose and fled—without the money.

1859-1967... 108 YEARS YOUNG

WE STARTED IN 1859 BUT...
WE'RE NOT 108 YEARS OLD!

We're 108 years young.

We're old enough to understand the soundness of time-tested basic ideas, but young enough to keep trying to improve them.

Modernization and keeping abreast of new ideas and techniques is a must for today's successful business.

We wouldn't be the world's largest food retailer if we weren't constantly thinking modern, thinking young.

But some basic thinking never changes.
Take that of our founder for instance.
He was dedicated, as we are, to bringing the most good food, to the most people, for the least amount of money.
To being fair, honest and trustworthy.
To caring about the people he served.

No matter how progressive, how automated, how modern we become,
we pledge to maintain these sound principles of our founder.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

So, Everyone Had Good Time

DEAR ABBY: Here's the situation: A woman, her daughter and her daughter's boy friend went to Expo 67. They traveled and lived together in a one bedroom trailer for the entire week that they were at the fair.

The woman is separated from her husband. The daughter and her boy friend are both over 21, but they are not officially engaged. They are just going together. No marriage plans have been mentioned. What do you think?

EAST LAKE, O.
DEAR EAST LAKE: I think they probably had a wonderful time. Now what's YOUR problem?

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it's all right for a little boy, say around four or five years old, to see his mother undressed? I have a friend who thinks it's perfectly all right to let her little boy hang around and watch her dress, from the skin out. And she thinks nothing of letting him come into the bathroom while she is in the tub. He comes in to ask her questions, or to just sit and visit while he gets his eyes full.

Maybe I am wrong, but I don't approve of this. My friend says it is better to let the boy KNOW than to have him curious. What is your opinion?

DAILY READER
DEAR READER: Maybe I'm old-fashioned, but I still believe in modesty. A mother shouldn't make a federal case out of it to accidentally catch a glimpse of her in the bathroom, but the bathroom door should be locked while Mother is bathing.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for seven years, and altho we love each other very much, I have one big problem. My husband does not want any children. He told me before we were married that he didn't want a family, but I was sure I could change his mind after we were married a while.

Wilson Caught In Party Fuss

Feud Over Economy May Split Laborites

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP) — Plagued by the recurrence of an old spy scandal and his foreign secretary's noisy dispute with newsmen, Prime Minister Harold Wilson faced more political embarrassment today at the hands of rebel members of his own Labor party.

A long feud over the government's stern management of Britain's economic crisis could boil into a major row when Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan asks party endorsement for Wilson's wage-price freeze and other deflationary measures.

Wilson's government is under no obligation to take orders from Labor party conventions but an adverse vote could damage the prime minister's prestige just when he and Callaghan feel sure that economic recovery, lower living costs and higher output are within sight.

Right now, unemployment has reached nearly 600,000, a 27-year peak, and is expected to go higher. A revolt by left, right and center Labor factions appeared certain since leaders of big unions controlling the votes of millions of members already have resolved to protest Wilson's stiff economic medicine.

The party rebels are asking for an end to deflation, which they say has weakened the nation's economy and worsened its overseas competitive position. They want further cuts in military spending overseas, an extension of government control over investment at home and abroad and a return to Labor's longtime commitment to insure full employment.

Another of Wilson's problems centered on the exuberant Foreign Secretary George Brown, who got himself involved in a noisy hassle with newsmen about midnight Monday. Brown complained bitterly that photographers have been plaguing his wife and himself.

The incident was the latest in a series involving Brown at home and abroad in recent months and some observers suggested that it raised again the question of Brown's political future.

Keen Competition Over Who Will Pilot 1st Moon Ship

By RONALD THOMPSON
SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — U.S. astronauts are in keen if silent competition for the three seats aboard the first moon-bound Apollo space-ship.

Of course, they all want the first lunar footprints to be made by an American, no matter who, and not by a Russian.

But they know that ahead of the first men on the moon is the chance to live forever in history books.

Who will go? Fairly soon, perhaps within a year, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will pick the three men for the first crew.

The veterans, whose names and exploits are already familiar, stand ready—Cooper, Schirra, Stafford, McDivitt. But there are new names, too — Eisele, Cunningham, Mattingly and others—who may be selected.

Some feel they're very much in the running. Others, either

Jackie Is Invited To Cambodia, Accepts

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy has accepted an invitation from Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk to visit that country next month.

"Mrs. Kennedy is looking forward to this visit very much," said her secretary, Nancy Tuckerman. "She has been anxious to visit the ancient Khmer monuments since college."

Diplomatic relations between the United States and Cambodia are currently broken off but the prince has made some conciliatory moves toward the West recently.

because of health, age or experience, know their chances are slim. In NASA's inner circle, the list has probably already been narrowed so that someone has a pretty good idea who will go.

NASA does not reveal completely how it picks men for space trips. Chief astronaut Donald K. "Deke" Slayton is charged with the initial responsibility for recommending crewmen for approval by higher headquarters.

"I could pick any two or three guys," said Slayton. "I think they've got that kind of capability. Naturally, there may be cases where two guys get along better together than with someone else, so it would be logical to make them a team."

Asked to elaborate on the criteria, Slayton added: "Well, you weigh a lot of things, and it's a difficult question to answer without getting into things I prefer not to discuss. Part of it is personal, confidential by my definition."

"It's sort of how do you assign anybody to anything. You know, it begins to influence people personally, pretty closely," he said. "It's obvious everybody can't be a commander, so you have to pick some people to be commanders and some for the other jobs."

On the first lunar mission, who has which job governs who actually sets foot on the moon's surface. Three make the trip but only the command pilot and lunar module pilot descend to the moon in the smaller space-ship they take along. The third flies the mothership in orbit around the moon until they return.

The astronauts also say they do not know Slayton's formula for recommending. Said one: "If you find out, let me know."

1859-1967, 108 YEARS YOUNG

WE STARTED IN 1859 BUT...
WE'RE NOT 108 YEARS OLD!

We're 108 years young.

We're old enough to understand the soundness of time-tested basic ideas, but young enough to keep trying to improve them.

Modernization and keeping abreast of new ideas and techniques is a must for today's successful business.

We wouldn't be the world's largest food retailer if we weren't constantly thinking modern, thinking young.

But some basic thinking never changes.

Take that of our founder for instance.

He was dedicated, as we are, to bringing the most good food, to the most people, for the least amount of money.

To being fair, honest and trustworthy.

To caring about the people he served.

No matter how progressive, how automated, how modern we become, we pledge to maintain these sound principles of our founder.

Five Points News

By Mrs. Francis Furniss

There were 47 present at the Five Points Methodist Sunday School Sunday morning. Worship services followed. The committees are meeting and completing plans for the New Life Mission week of Evangelism which will be held in the Derby church on Oct. 22-26. Holy Communion was observed in both of the churches Sunday.

The Five Points Methodist Social Hour Club held their regular meeting Friday evening in the church basement with 15 members present for the lovely covered dish supper preceding the meeting. The president, Mrs. Helen Phillips presided over the business session and heard the various reports. Miss Laura Long lead the devotionals using the Upper Room followed by prayer. Mrs. Francis Furniss gave the secretary's report and also read "Thank You" notes from Clarence Finch and Harvey Brigner for flowers they had received while they were in the hospitals. Mrs. Clark Dennis, treasurer gave the financial report and Mrs. E. L. Sheets and Clark Dennis played birthday dues for the program. Linda Long read "understanding" and Mrs. Sheets read "My Answered Prayer". Laura Long closed the meeting with a reading "My Garden" followed by all praying the Lord's Prayer. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss were hosts for the evening. The October meeting will be held the last Friday evening in the month with Mrs. Arthur Winfough as hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss and son Harold and Miss Laura Long were Wednesday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gene R. Donohoe and sons of near Washington C. H.

Mr. and Mrs. William Parker and children David, Peggy and Patty of Worthington were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Fay Jolly of Columbus were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clark McCafferty.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Sheets and son Mickey of Westerville and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Sheets were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Turney Sheets and son Terry. The occasion celebrated Max's birthday.

Mrs. Marguerite Snyder of Columbus was the houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Loring Stoer the past week while she is recuperating following surgery. She is much improved.

Phipps Is Named
Back of the Week

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Mike Phipps of Purdue, son of an Indiana state policeman, is The Associated Press College Football Back of the Week.

He gave Notre Dame defensemen the icy stare of a man packing a pistol last Saturday and dropped the nation's No. 1 ranking team 28-21.

Max Address, Mike's high school coach at Columbus, Ind., sent the 19-year-old sophomore quarterback a telegram, expressing pride but saying, "keep your feet on the ground."

"I know he will, anyway," Address said. "He's a sound kid."

Phipps justified the opinion by commenting on the honor, "I've only had two games experience. Maybe after two years of college ball this would be more appropriate but for the honor to come so soon I'm not sure I'm deserving of it."

He added quickly, "But I'm most appreciative."

Purdue's victory over the Irish was a superb team performance but it wouldn't have come off without the baby-faced novice quarterback. He completed 14 of 34 passes for 238 yards, two touchdowns and a two-point conversion. He also carried the ball 33 yards in nine rushes.

Phipps, who owns three shotguns for his hobby of quail and rabbit hunting, is 6-foot-3 and weighs 205 pounds. He's quite a man even when he isn't packing a gun.

Leroy Keyes, who played both offensive and defensive back for the Boilermakers in the big upset, and halfback O.J. Simpson of Southern California also were seriously considered for the AP Back of the Week.

Fair Skies Greet Series Crowd

BOSTON (AP) — Fair weather with temperatures in the 60s awaited the 35,875 fans who survived the scramble for seats and standing room at the opening today of the World Series between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Boston Red Sox.

The Cardinals, who won the National League crown easily, were rated an 11-10 favorite to win the game and a 2-2 series favorite over the Red Sox, who won the American League title on the last day of the season.

St. Louis, with nine players who have seen World Series action before, assigned the pitching chores to ace right-hander Bob Gibson, who won 13 games and lost 7 despite being out of action for two months with a broken leg.

Boston, whose only series veterans are late-season acquisitions Elston Howard and Norm Siebern, countered with fast-working right-hander Jose Santiago, holder of a 12-4 record.

Kent Standout
Tapped for Honor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Don Fitzgerald, 5-foot-11, 220 pound football player at Kent State University, has been named Mid-American Conference back of the week.

It was Fitzgerald's bull-like rushes that helped Kent State turn back Ohio University 21-14 last Saturday. Fitzgerald, a senior, pounded the rugged Ohio defense for 138 yards in 38 carries.

The MAC lineman of the week is defensive end Bruce Wallace of Marshall, who played an outstanding game despite the Thundering Herd's 14-7 loss to Toledo.

Wallace, a 5-11, 185 pound junior, picked off an errant Toledo pass and sped 85 yards for Marshall's only score.

Other backs nominated for honors were Fred Mathews of Bowling Green; Joe Ralbusky, Marshall; Pete Kramer, Toledo and Jim Boreland, Western Michigan.

Linemen nominated included Dennis Zolciak, Bowling Green; Nick Zuj, Kent State; Steve Robinson, Ohio U.; Tom Beutler, Toledo and Dale Livingston, Western Michigan.

Cards' Quarterback
Best in NFL Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — Young Jim Hart, who turned the corner as a pro quarterback in the St. Louis Cardinals' 38-28 upset victory over Detroit last Sunday, has been selected as the National Football League's Offensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press.

Hart, given the monumental task last month of replacing Army inductee Charlie Johnson, got the Cardinals' offense rolling for the first time this season as they vaulted into first place in the NFL's Century Division.

The second-year pro from Southern Illinois University connected on 19 of 27 passes for 313 yards and a pair of touchdown bombs, triggering a St. Louis comeback that sent the Cards' to their second victory in three starts.

Colts, Packers Have Best Offense, Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Colts is the best offensive team in the National Football League and the champion Green Bay Packers the toughest on defense so far this season.

The weekly team statistics released today by the NFL show the Colts lead in total offense with an average of 443.7 yards and in passing offense with an average of 358.

The Detroit Lions prevented a sweep by the Colts in the three main offensive departments by leading in rushing offense with an average of 182 yards.

On defense, Green Bay has yielded only an average of 150 yards over-all and also is first in pass defense by giving up an average of 26.3 yards.

Ohio State's football squad includes two New Jersey sophomores. They are quarterback Kevin Ruskamp, 19, of Garfield and linebacker Mike Radtke, 19, of Wayne.

Cards' Quarterback Best in NFL Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — Young Jim Hart, who turned the corner as a pro quarterback in the St. Louis Cardinals' 38-28 upset victory over Detroit last Sunday, has been selected as the National Football League's Offensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press.

Hart, given the monumental task last month of replacing Army inductee Charlie Johnson, got the Cardinals' offense rolling for the first time this season as they vaulted into first place in the NFL's Century Division.

The second-year pro from Southern Illinois University connected on 19 of 27 passes for 313 yards and a pair of touchdown bombs, triggering a St. Louis comeback that sent the Cards' to their second victory in three starts.

Colts, Packers Have Best Offense, Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Colts is the best offensive team in the National Football League and the champion Green Bay Packers the toughest on defense so far this season.

The weekly team statistics released today by the NFL show the Colts lead in total offense with an average of 443.7 yards and in passing offense with an average of 358.

The Detroit Lions prevented a sweep by the Colts in the three main offensive departments by leading in rushing offense with an average of 182 yards.

On defense, Green Bay has yielded only an average of 150 yards over-all and also is first in pass defense by giving up an average of 26.3 yards.

Pittsburgh is the stingiest on defense against rushing. The Steelers have yielded an average of only 70 yards on the ground.

More style. More performance. More all-around value. One look tells you these are for the man who loves driving. One demonstration drive shows why!

A smoother, more silent new ride. Computer-tuned suspension systems. Improved shock absorbers. New double-cushioned rubber body mounts. They all team up to bring you the smoothest, most silent Chevrolet ride ever.

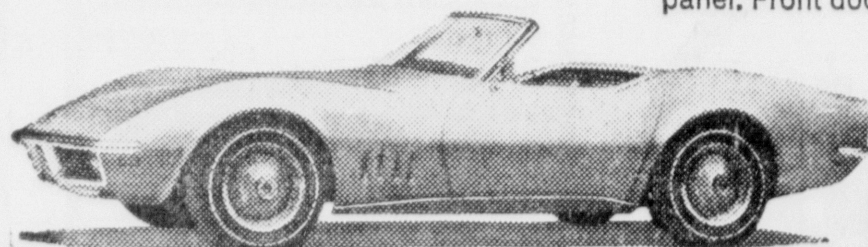

A sportier new look, a sportier new feel. Chevelle SS 396! A new swept-back design poised on a quicker handling 112" wheelbase. Camaro SS—"The Hugger!" Slimmed down and beefed up with a lower-styled hood for the 350-cubic-inch V8 and a distinctive raised hood for the 396 V8. Corvette Sting Ray! Totally, beautifully new from its long, low hood to its upswept rear deck.

New Astro Ventilation. A fresh new idea in ventilation comes standard on every 1968 Camaro and Corvette. It's Astro Ventilation, a system that lets air in, but keeps noise and wind out. Outside air flows in through special vent-ports right on the instrument panel. Front doors feature full glass styling—no ventpanes! You don't even have to open a window.

More security than ever. You'll appreciate all the standard safety features on the '68 Chevrolets, including the famous proved GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column. Some new ones this year are energy-absorbing front seat backs, and safety armrests that shield door handles.

Gregory Says He'll Run for President

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Dick Gregory, Negro comedian, announced Tuesday night that he will be a candidate for president of the United States on an independent ticket.

Gregory, who spoke before an audience of more than 4,000 at the University of Kansas, said earlier in a news conference that his platform would center on civil rights issues.

Describing America as "the number one racist country in the world," Gregory said, "if America can't solve her problems within three years then her problems will dissolve her. The answer to these problems is in our own American Constitution."

Westfall, Braves Renew Rivalry

Westfall hosts Logan Elm Friday in what may well be termed the "high school football game of the week" in Pickaway County. Pleasant View travels to Teays Valley for a Metropolitan League game.

The only two class A schools in the county, both Westfall and Logan Elm are members of the Scioto Valley Conference.

The Braves are winless this season. Westfall's Mustangs have won one game, lost two and tied one.

Friday's tilt marked Logan Elm's first encounter in conference action. Westfall has defeated Picketon and lost to Union in the league.

WESTFALL has had four coaches in four years of varsity football. Asa Elsea was the first Mustang mentor. He was followed by Joe Duncan, who left to return to his high school alma mater Gallipolis as an assistant.

Last year Len Gwiazdowski was the head coach and this year OSU grad Dave Katterhenrick is the "chief wrangler" in the Mustang grid corral.

Although Katterhenrick was a fullback under Woody Hayes, who is credited with saying "Three things can happen on a pass and two of them are bad," his aerial game has been a prime factor in the improved success of this year's young Mustangs.

Using a short punt formation much of the time, any of the Westfall backfield is capable of throwing the ball.

Quarterback Greg Bigam and halfback Gene Carfrey and Gene Furniss all are capable of either throwing or running with the ball.

In Tony Lightle and Don Combs, Katterhenrick has two 6-4 ends who make good targets for his throwers. Fullback Chris Schein adds to the running attack of the young Mustangs.

THERE are only three seniors on the squad.

Logan Elm is in a somewhat similar coaching situation as is Westfall. Four years ago Keith Merrin quit his grid post to devote more time to basketball.

Jim Colville was his successor. Colville went to a Michigan

American League Grid Statistics

NEW YORK (AP) — Wally Lemm didn't push young Hoyle Granger last year. Catching him has been the problem this season.

Houston's Granger, a husky running back, has gained 319 yards in 60 carries and stands second among the American Football League's rushing leaders released today.

"You've got to go up the middle," says Granger, who learned by watching as a rookie last season. "You've got to hit in their aggressively. You've got to make them respect you up the middle."

Granger hit Denver for 138 yards in 20 carries as the Oilers whipped Denver 10-6. It was the second time he's gone over 100 yards this season and he's the first AFL player to do that.

Boston's Jim Nance leads the AFL rushers with 367 yards in 84 attempts while Kansas City's Mike Garrett is third on 261 yards in 58 tries.

Joe Namath, who passed for 415 yards as New York defeated Miami 29-7 Sunday, leads the league's passers with 967 yards on 58 for 99. Namath, averaging 9.77 yards per completion, has thrown seven TD passes.

Emerson Booser of the Jets leads the scoring race with 36 points on six touchdowns. Hewitt Dixon of Oakland is the top pass receiver with 20 catches for 196 yards and two TDs.

Browns Look For Strong Pitt Defense

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Blanton Collier has warned the Cleveland Browns to expect a tough Pittsburgh Steelers defense against running and a lot of blitzing when the neighboring National Football League rivals clash here Saturday night.

"They'll blitz more than I've seen a Steelers' team blitz," Collier said in his Tuesday news conference. "They'll safety blitz and double blitz."

The Steelers have the stingiest defense in the league against rushing, having yielded a total of only nine first downs and an average of 70 yards a game in their three games.

This should challenge the Browns' Leroy Kelly whose 110 yards against the New Orleans Saints last Sunday moved him into the NFL individual rushing leadership with 262 yards.

Gary Collins, sidelined with a severe leg bruise last Sunday, is expected to see action against the Steelers at flanker, where Eppie Barney filled in with a performance that pleased Collier.

The Browns, who have lost a game to Pittsburgh in three of the last four years, can hardly afford to do that this year after dropping two of their first three games. Cleveland is favored by 10 points by the odds-makers.

The Steelers are using a 23-year-old rookie, Kent Nix, as quarterback because Bill Nelson's knee injury has put him on the injured reserve list. Nix, from Texas Christian, hit on 12 of 26 passes for 159 yards last Sunday in his first NFL start. The Steelers lost that one to the Philadelphia Eagles 34-24.

A report from the Pittsburgh camp indicates another key offensive player on the Steelers' injury roll, flanker Roy Jefferson. A pulled thigh muscle, suffered early in the Philadelphia game, could keep him sidelined, with J. R. Wilburn filling the vacancy.

Situation Reversed This Time

Cards, Red Sox Recall 1946 World Series

BOSTON (AP) — Every baseball fan who was out of diapers at the time remembers the daring dash of Enos Slaughter that enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to beat the Boston Red Sox in the 1946 World Series.

That, however, isn't the first thing recalled by Red Schoendienst and Bobby Doerr, the opposing second basemen in that Series who again are on different sides for the latest clash between St. Louis and Boston.

"We won it," said Schoendienst, the Cardinal manager, replying to the question, "What do you remember best about that Series?"

Schoendienst will send Bob Gibson, a fireballing right hander against the Red Sox in the opener.

Jose Santiago, also a right hander, opposed him, gaining the distinction of being the first Puerto Rican ever to start a Series opener.

The situation this year is the exact opposite of what it was in 1946 when the Cardinals edged Boston four games to three, winning the seventh game as Slaughter raced from first to the plate on Harry Walker's hit to left-center field.

That year the Cardinals, under freshman Manager Eddie Dyer, had to beat Brooklyn in a playoff to win the National League pennant while the Red Sox coasted to the American League crown by 12 games.

This season it was the Red Sox, under first-year manager Dick Williams, who had to win the last two games of the regular season to take the AL pennant while St. Louis breezed by 10½ games.

Schoendienst, however, doesn't see any significance in a team having an easy race or a tough one.

"I don't think either team has an advantage in that way," Schoendienst said. "I don't think the Red Sox are tired. They showed that against Minnesota. And now they've had two days rest. That's all you need."

"As for us, after we won it, we just played the same way we had been. We won our last three games so we weren't letting up."

Schoendienst, 4, sees at least one similarity between the Red Sox of 1946 and the Red Sox of 1967.

Doerr, now 49 with his curly hair turned gray, remembers how sad it was to lose that series.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — A little bit of history comes back to this home of golf today — with bagpipes skirling, drums beating, flutes playing and clarinets piping.

The march through the ancient streets of St. Andrews — mentioned in history way back in the 12th century — will mark the formal opening of the $129,000 Alcan Golfer of the Year Tournament. The 72-hole competition starts Thursday and ends Sunday.

Billy Casper of San Diego, Calif., a former U.S. Open champion, is favored in the field of 10 other Americans, seven British players and New Zealander Bob Charles.

Those 19 players will revive something that St. Andrews — that place that gave Bobby Jones the freedom of the city in 1958 — has not seen for years.

Originally St. Andrews started a big golfing day with "golfers walking through the city to the links in procession, preceded by a musical band with drums, flutes, and clarinets and usually accompanied by an immense number of the inhabitants."

That's what author W.W. Tulloch wrote about the religion of golf in St. Andrews. He said it all happened in 1849.

The winners of the Alcan Golfer of the Year will receive the biggest first prize ever in the history of golf — $55,000.

But before they aim at that prize the golfers will march through the town with their caddies today and then have a long driving contest.

Bobby Nichols, Louisville, Ky., and Doug Sanders, Cedartown, Ga., were next in the betting list at 10-1 with Bob Charles, New Zealand, and Gardner Dickinson, D o t h a n, Ala., at 16-1.

THE third tally was set up when Kasper intercepted a pass. Doyle Kiser caught an aerial from Tom Bowers two plays later for the score.

At halftime the score was 20-0. Neither team scored in the third quarter.

In the fourth, Dave Ogan ripped through a gaping hole off tackle to gain the final TD of the game.

The freshman defense is unscored on this year. Mt. Logan never got closer to the Circleville goal line than the 40-yard stripe. As the game ended, Greg Heiskell picked off a Mt. Logan aerial for the third interception of the day.

Saturday the freshman play at Lancaster Stansbury.

Anders, Elliott Buck Co-Captains

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State University's football team members have elected offensive split end Billy Ray Anders and defensive halfback Sam Elliott as co-captains of the 1967 squad.

Both had served as co-captains under a temporary appointment by the coaching staff in last Saturday's opening game against Arizona.

Anders, 6-2, 194-pound senior from Sabina, already holds OSU records for most passes caught (85) and most yards gained (1,009) on pass receptions in little more than two seasons. Elliott is a 6-0, 193-pound senior, from California.

Colorado over Iowa State: Wilmer Cook, Colorado's ace 504.

Alabama over Mississippi: Coach Bear Bryant says he is going to spend the week looking for a running back to augment the passing of Kenny Stabler. Here's the betting he found one.

Texas Tech over Mississippi State: There are seven sophomores in the Mississippi State starting line-up.

Army over Duke: Spirit and a trio of competent quarterbacks gives the Cadets an edge.

Lebanon Feature Ends in Surprise

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Hickory Chips came on strong in the back stretch and overtook Charlie Rodgers to win by a neck the featured eighth race at Lebanon Raceway Tuesday night.

Robert Brown of Troy, Ohio, drove the 4-year-old black mare over the one mile in 2:09 2-5 for a payoff of $5.60, $3.40 and $2.80.

Charlie Rodgers' place netted ticketholders $3.60 and $2.60 and Ralph Abbe's show paid $2.80.

The 1,947 fans wagered $79, Wilmer Cook, Colorado's ace 504.

MIKE SMITH STEVE BARTHELMAS

A pair of juniors on the Circleville High School football squad are Mike Smith and Steve Barthelmas. Smith is a 124 pound halfback and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith. Barthelmas weighs 153 pounds and plays guard. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Barthelmas, Route 2.

Westfall, Braves Renew Rivalry

Westfall hosts Logan Elm Friday in what may well be termed the "high school football game of the week" in Pickaway County. Pleasant View travels to Teays Valley for a Metropolitan League game.

The only two class A schools in the county, both Westfall and Logan Elm are members of the Scioto Valley Conference.

The Braves are winless this season. Westfall's Mustangs have won one game, lost two and tied one.

Friday's tilt marked Logan Elm's first encounter in conference action. Westfall has defeated Piketon and lost to Unioto in the league.

WESTFALL has had four coaches in four years of varsity football. Asa Elsea was the first Mustang mentor. He was followed by Joe Duncan, who left to return to his high school alma mater Gallipolis as an assistant.

Last year Len Gwiazdowski was the head coach and this year OSU grad Dave Katterhenrick is the "chief Wrangler" in the Mustang grid corral.

Although Katterhenrick was a fullback under Woody Hayes, who is credited with saying "Three things can happen on a pass and two of them are bad," his aerial game has been a prime factor in the improved success of this year's young Mustangs.

Using a short punt formation much of the time, any of the Westfall backfield is capable of throwing the ball.

Quarterback Greg Bigam and halfback Gene Carfrey and Gene Furniss all are capable of either throwing or running with the ball.

In Tony Lightle and Don Combs, Katterhenrick has two 64 ends who make good targets for his throwers. Fullback Chris Schein adds to the running attack of the young Mustangs.

THERE are only three seniors on the squad.

Logan Elm is in a somewhat similar coaching situation as is Westfall. Four years ago Keith Merrin quit his grid post to devote more time to basketball.

Jim Colville was his successor. Colville went to a Michigan

American League Grid Statistics

NEW YORK (AP) — Wally Lemm didn't push young Hoyle Granger last year. Catching him has been the problem this season.

Houston's Granger, a husky running back, has gained 319 yards in 60 carries and stands second among the American Football League's rushing leaders released today.

"You've got to go up the middle," says Granger, who learned by watching as a rookie last season. "You've got to hit in their aggressively. You've got to make them respect you up the middle."

Granger hit Denver for 138 yards in 20 carries as the Oilers whipped Denver 10-6. It was the second time he's gone over 100 yards this season and he's the first AFL player to do that.

Boston's Jim Nance leads the AFL rushers with 367 yards in 84 attempts while Kansas City's Mike Garrett is third on 261 yards in 58 tries.

Joe Namath, who passed for 415 yards as New York defeated Miami 29-7 Sunday, leads the league's passers with 987 yards on 56 for 99. Namath, averaging 9.77 yards per completion, has thrown seven TD passes.

Emerson Booser of the Jets leads the scoring race with 36 points on six touchdowns. Hewitt Dixon of Oakland is the top pass receiver with 20 catches for 196 yards and two TDs.

Browns Look For Strong Pitt Defense

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Blanton Collier has warned the Cleveland Browns to expect a tough Pittsburgh Steeler defense against running and a lot of blitzing when the neighboring National Football League rivals clash here Saturday night.

"They'll blitz more than I've seen a Steelers' team blitz," Collier said in his Tuesday news conference. "They'll safety blitz and double blitz."

The Steelers have the stingiest defense in the league against rushing, having yielded a total of only nine first downs and an average of 70 yards a game in their three games.

This should challenge the Browns' Leroy Kelly whose 110 yards against the New Orleans Saints last Sunday moved him into the NFL individual rushing leadership with 262 yards.

Gary Collins, sidelined with a severe leg bruise last Sunday, is expected to see action against the Steelers at flanker, where Eppie Barney filled in with a performance that pleased Collier.

The Browns, who have lost a game to Pittsburgh in three of the last four years, can hardly afford to do that this year after dropping two of their first three games. Cleveland is favored by 10 points by the odds-makers.

The Steelers are using a 23-year-old rookie, Kent Nix, as quarterback because Bill Nelson's knee injury has put him on the injured reserve list. Nix, from Texas Christian, hit on 12 of 26 passes for 159 yards last Sunday in his first NFL start. The Steelers lost that one to the Philadelphia Eagles 34-24.

A report from the Pittsburgh camp indicates another key offensive player on the Steelers' injury roll, flanker Roy Jefferson. A pulled thigh muscle, suffered early in the Philadelphia game, could keep him sidelined, with J. R. Wilburn filling the vacancy.

Local Horses Win At Northfield

Mary K Creed, owned by Mrs. Mary Fissell and drive by Forrest Short, won her second start at Northfield Park, Cleveland Monday.

The locally owned pacer was first in 2:06 1-5, returning $15.40, $6.00 and $4.60. It was her second victory at Northfield.

Virgie's Phone, a trotter owned by Harlow Arledge and reined by Dick Brandt St, was also first at Northfield Monday, winning in 2:10 4-5. In an earlier start, Virgie's Phone was second.

Cards, Red Sox Recall 1946 World Series

BOSTON (AP) — Every baseball fan who was out of diapers at the time remembers the daring dash of Enos Slaughter that enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to beat the Boston Red Sox in the 1946 World Series.

That, however, isn't the first thing recalled by Red Schoendienst and Bobby Doerr, the opposing second basemen in that Series who again are on different sides for the latest clash between St. Louis and Boston.

"We won it," said Schoendienst, the Cardinal manager, replying to the question, "What do you remember best about that Series?"

"Losing it," was the answer from Doerr, Red Sox coach who had just finished hitting grounders to the Boston infielders in their final workout for today's start of the 1967 Series.

Schoendienst will send Bob

Gibson, a fireballing right hander, against the Red Sox in the opener.

Jose Santiago, also a right hander, opposed him, gaining the distinction of being the first Puerto Rican ever to start a Series opener.

The situation this year is the exact opposite of what it was in 1946 when the Cardinals edged Boston four games to three, winning the seventh game as Slaughter raced from first to the plate on Harry Walker's hit to left-center field.

Golf Tourney Opens on Historic Note

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — A little bit of history comes back to this home of golf today — with bagpipes skirling, drums beating, flutes playing and clarinets piping.

The march through the ancient streets of St. Andrews — mentioned in history way back in the 12th century — will mark the formal opening of the $129,000 Alcan Golfer of the Year Tournament. The 72-hole competition starts Thursday and ends Sunday.

Billy Casper of San Diego, Calif., a former U.S. Open champion, is favored in the field of 10 other Americans, seven British players and New Zealanders Bob Charles.

Those 19 players will revive something that St. Andrews — that place that gave Bobby Jones the freedom of the city in 1955 — has not seen for years.

Originally St. Andrews started a big golfing day with "golfers walking through the city to the links in procession, preceded by a musical band with drums, flutes, and clarinets and usually accompanied by an immense number of the inhabitants."

That's what author W.W. Tulloch wrote about the religion of golf in St. Andrews. He said it all happened in 1849.

The winners of the Alcan Golfer of the Year will receive the biggest first prize ever in the history of golf — $55,000.

But before they aim at that prize the golfers will march through the town with their cadies today and then have a long driving contest.

Gay Brewer, U.S. Masters champion, survived a slight auto accident on his way to St. Andrews and was rated 8-1 second choice behind Casper, the 5-1 favorite.

Bobby Nichols, Louisville, Ky., and Doug Sanders, Cedertown, Ga., were next in the betting list at 10-1 with Bob Charles, New Zealand, and Gardner Dickinson, D o t h a n, Ala., at 16-1.

Now there's a lightweight McCulloch for every man.

What's your cutting job? Land clearing? Pruning? Fence building? Firewood cutting? Whatever, a member of the world's lightest chain saw family will help you do it better with less work. Take the MAC 1-10, for instance. Here's the lightest-weight, easiest-handling chain saw out of the toy class. Packs 3.3 cu. in. of cutting power at just 10½ lbs. * Or take the MAC 2-10. Comes with both automatic and manual chain oiling systems. And a fast-start primer for quick cold starts. Only 10¾ lbs. * Want a saw powered for professional loggers? See the MAC 4-10. Gear drives? McCulloch makes the world's lightest professional gear drives. Drop by for a MAC 10 demonstration soon. We'll take a big load off your back.

* Dry weight, less bar and chain.

That year the Cardinals, under freshman Manager Eddie Dyer, had to beat Brooklyn in a playoff to win the National League pennant while the Red Sox coasted to the American League crown by 12 games.

This season it was the Red Sox, under first-year manager Dick Williams, who had to win the last two games of the regular season to take the AL pennant while St. Louis breezed by 10½ games.

Schoendienst, however, doesn't see any significance in a team having an easy race or a tough one.

"I don't think either team has an advantage in that way," Schoendienst said. "I don't think the Red Sox are tired. They showed that against Minnesota. And now they've had two days rest. That's all you need."

Schoendienst, 4, sees at least one similarity between the Red Sox of 1946 and the Red Sox of 1967.

Doerr, now 49 with his curly hair turned gray, remembers how sad it was to lose that series.

Anders, Elliott Buck Co-Captains

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State University's football team members have elected offensive split end Billy Ray Anders and defensive halfback Sam Elliott as co-captains of the 1967 squad.

Both had served as co-captains under a temporary appointment by the coaching staff in last Saturday's opening game against Arizona.

Anders, 6-2, 194-pound senior from Sabina, already holds OSU records for most passes caught (85) and most yards gained (1,009) on pass receptions in little more than two seasons. Elliott is a 6-0, 193-pound senior, from California.

Quest For Mythical AA Laurels Takes Gridders over Rough Road

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Four of the five teams in the awesome All American Football Conference have a good crack at winning the mythical Class AA high school football championship.

But don't bet any of them will take the title.

It still takes a perfect season to capture most of the votes and going through a full 10-game schedule unscathed in this league is like pulling off a miracle.

Three of the All American teams are ranked in The AP's Top Ten with once-beaten Niles (3-1) still in contention in 14th place.

Canton McKinley (4-0) is No. 1, Massillon (4-0) is No. 2 and Steubenville (4-0) is No. 4. Only Warren Harding (2-2) seems to be having an off year and the Panthers' only losses have come in the league.

But McKinley, Massillon and Steubenville all must play each other and Niles, beaten only by Canton in a tough 19-14 season opener, could burst Massillon's bubble this Friday at Tiger Stadium.

Even if Coach Bob Seaman's Tigers get by the Red Dragons they still must contend with Steubenville and McKinley the last two weekends of the season.

And McKinley and Steubenville collide at Canton Oct. 13 with the loser destined to drop out of the race.

This sort of situation gives the other strong clubs around the state ample opportunity to move up in the rankings and stake a claim to the championship.

Scholastic sidelights:
Wintersville, beaten only once last year, avenged that setback with a 36-0 romp over St. Clairsville. It was the 10th straight victory over a two-season stretch for Wintersville, which has lost only five of its last 63.

Portsmouth Notre Dame, ranked No. 7 in Class A, whipped previously unbeaten Waverly Friday 22-12 for its 27th straight triumph. Waverly is an AA school.

Senior halfback Dick Hillman gained 140 yards and kicked a field goal leading Norwalk St. Paul to its fourth straight.

Unbeaten Dover, ranked No. 9, is led by halfback Dave Keitch with 60 points and quarterback Rich Trustdorf, who has completed 19 of 29 aeriels for 423 yards and eight touchdowns.

Strong Hamilton Garfield handed Dayton Chaminade its first loss 28-20 and the Griffins have won 14 of their last 15 and play powerful Cincinnati Princeton this week. Princeton ousted Middletown from the ranks of the unbeaten, 22-0.

Class A Newark Catholic, 4-0, has outscored its opponents 261-34. Halfback Mike McKee has gained 580 yards and scored 54 points while teammate Denny Welch has rushed for 570 yards from his fullback position and scored 50 points.

Kent Roosevelt (4-0) has rolled up 154 points while holding the opposition to only six.

Class A All-Ohio fullback Roger Davidson of Kent State High plowed for 252 yards in 47 tries in a 32-16 lacing of Rootstown. Davidson now boasts 861 yards rushing and 80 points in four victories.

Mechanicsburg, first in the Darby Valley League, is riding a 19-game streak without a loss.

Baseball Majors Start Inventory; 2nd Season Opens

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON AP — Four managers' jobs still are open in the major leagues as the second season opens with the gathering of the clan for the World Series.

Not only is the Kansas City job open but the franchise is floating. Charley Finley is expected to ask for permission to move—probably to Oakland or Seattle—at a special American League meeting later this month. He probably will get enough votes to make it stick.
Only then will he have time to think about a successor to interim Manager Luke Appling.

Pittsburgh has given Danny Murtaugh a new job, thus eliminating the veteran from any thoughts of the job he didn't want. Dick Groat, retired shortstop, and Bill Virdon, a manager in the New York Mets' chain and former Pirate center fielder, are high in the rumor league, along with Mickey Vernon.

The Pirates probably would like to get Al Lopez out of retirement but Al has too much fun playing golf and making a few trips to Chicago in his advisory capacity with the White Sox.

Paul Richards' bombshell at Atlanta just might be Paul Richards to manager the Braves.
Lum Harris still is the leader in the rumor league.

The New York Mets are due to pick the successor to Wes
Westrum before too many days

The New York Mets are due to pick the successor to Wes Westrum before too many days have passed. Yogi Berra has to be a possibility if he wants to give up a nice safe job as a coach for the perils of managing a 10th place team.

If Gil Hodges didn't have a year to go on his Washington contract he would be the favorite. Some people think the Mets still may lure Hodges to Shea.

Lefty Gomez was watching the St. Louis Cardinals attack the friendly left field wall at Fenway Park Tuesday afternoon when a sports writer asked him how the wall had affected him in his pitching days.

"The wall didn't bother me," quipped Lefty. "It was the hitters."

Tony Conigliaro will play the same role that Dick Williams played for Brooklyn in the 1952 World Series with the Yankees. Although Conigliaro, out of action with double vision due to a beaning, is not on the active list he will be permitted to sit on the Red Sox bench in uniform. Williams, a utility man with the Dodgers, also was given the same courtesy in '52 when he had a shoulder separation and was reduced to the role of a "yeller."

In the 1953 Series, Williams was a Dodger pinch hitter in three games against the Yanks. He singled off Eddie Lopat, walked and was struck out by Bob Kuzava in his three appearances.

CATCHING 40 WINKS at Con Thien is this GI, almost lost among sandbags, war material and rubble. Shelling of the U.S. Marine bastion has slackened, probably because of a shortage of North Vietnam ammunition.

Marines Rout VC Troops At Con Thien; Siege Ends

SAIGON (AP) — Massive American firepower has broken the back of the Communists' month-long artillery siege of Con Thien and sent groups of North Vietnamese soldiers into retreat from abandoned gun pits, U.S. military authorities said today.

"We made it a Dien Bien Phu in reverse," Gen. William C. Westmoreland told a Washington Star reporter.

The U.S. commander said the North Vietnamese had suffered a severe setback with heavy casualties in their attempts to knock out Con Thien and other Marine outposts below the demilitarized zone.

The break in the allies' favor on the war's one semistabilized front followed up American aerial attacks on North Vietnam Tuesday as close as 10 miles to Red China. The raiders hit two bridges that the Pentagon had previously held off-limits. In all, U.S. Air Force and Navy squadrons flew 106 missions over the North. Spokesmen announced one plane was shot down.

The North Vietnamese, who had claimed they downed seven planes Tuesday, broadcast a declaration that they felt five more Wednesday. There was no immediate American comment.

Although the Communist fire on Con Thien slackened appreciably and aerial reconnaissance showed some groups pulling back, U.S. authorities said there was no sign of a general withdrawal of the 35,000 North Vietnamese troops estimated to be massed in and near the DMZ.

Westmoreland cautioned in an interview with The Associated Press that he expects renewed assaults against the Marine positions.

"I don't think the enemy has given up his aggressive campaign," the general said.

Dien Bien Phu, in the hills 180 miles west of Hanoi, was the site of France's final defeat in the Indochina war in 1954. Big guns manhandled to the heights by Ho Chi Minh's Communist-led troops battered the remnants of a French army into submission.

The Communists' attack on Con Thien, at times surpassing 1,000 rounds a day, was their most massive artillery operation since Dien Bien Phu.

Westmoreland has described the American response — aerial bombs and shells from both land-based and naval guns — as the greatest concentration of conventional firepower in history.

The U.S. Marine outposts are intended to block what some observers believe could be a large-scale attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to take over South Vietnam's northern provinces.

U.S. spokesmen said aerial spotters have seen groups of retreating North Vietnamese soldiers. They said aerial photographs have shown abandoned enemy gunpits in the DMZ.

"There are all kinds of indications that we did one helluva lot of damage to them," said one ranking officer. "There is every indication that they are pulling back and that we broke their back this time."

Westmoreland indicated that he expected any lull along the DMZ to be temporary.

"It appears the enemy had planned to eliminate Con

Thien," the general said as he arrived in Da Nang, the Marines' northern headquarters, to confer with Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman Jr., U.S. Marine commander in Vietnam.

"A number of North Vietnamese battalions were deployed against it. This served to create a target to the point where the enemy suffered great casualties, we are convinced. We can't prove it because there is no way to assess it. But I am confident their casualties were heavy."

"I don't think the enemy has given up his aggressive campaign," Westmoreland said. "He has had a severe setback. He has had heavy casualties. He has a weather problem."

"The enemy losses as seen at Con Thien are great but he'll continue to send troops down to fill up the depleted ranks and try to rebuild his forces."

Townships Plan Education Program Of Zoning Laws

A group of rural Pickaway County residents met at the Pickaway County Agriculture extension office Tuesday to map plans for a mass education program on zoning proposals in 10 townships.

The zoning proposals will be on the ballots in Darby, Monroe, Muhlenberg, Perry, Deercreek, Jackson, Wayne, Salt Creek, Washington and Pickaway townships.

Five townships in Pickaway County are already zoned. They are Circleville, Madison, Walnut, Harrison and Scioto.

Last night's meeting was chaired by Charles Rose, Deercreek Twp. farmer.

THE zoning officials agreed to utilize newspaper and radio service as well as personal contact in explaining the need of zoning to the residents of the townships.

The zoning proposals will effect rural areas only. Villages within the townships must present separate proposals if they desire zoning.

It was pointed out last night that zoning does not apply to agriculture. The farmer is free to carry on his operations without restriction.

So far, no public money has been spent on the zoning project. Officials who have worked on the zoning regulations do not anticipate that any township tax

Stocks Show Slight Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market posted a moderate gain in active trading early this afternoon.

Advances among individual stocks outpaced declines by a 3-2 margin.

The New York Stock Exchange ticker tape lagged during the morning in reporting floor transactions.

Brokers said favorable factors included the House Ways and Means Committee's postponement of consideration of the income tax surcharge bill until an understanding is reached with President Johnson on spending reductions, and an increase in new car sales during the last third of September.

Rubbers, mail order-retails, aircrafts, electronics and oils were mostly higher.

Changes of key issues ranged from fractions to about 2 points. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 1.33 at 9.25 a half-hour earlier.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon had gained 4 to 338.1 with industrials up 1.7, rails off .7 and utilities up .4.

Massive Tides

Torrential rains lasting through tonight were expected to touch off new floods from the port city into the mountains.

There was no immediate word from villages near the center of Fern's battering winds and tides. These included Manuel Gonzalez and Aldama, all punished severely by the hurricane of last year.

There were warnings in advance of tides six feet above normal in a small area near the eye and tapering down to between three and five feet in the sector from about 100 miles below Brownsville southward to Tampico.

Thousands evacuated Tampico, a city of 125,000 while the storm still approached.

By late Tuesday night, however, Jack Stewart of the Brownsville Weather Bureau said, "It looks like this thing will about wash out by the time it reaches the coast."

Fern bobbed up unexpectedly two days ago in the Gulf of Mexico instead of the South Atlantic, the usual birthplace for such storms.

For a time its course menaced the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas, where Hurricane Beulah smashed ashore close to Brownsville two weeks ago with winds up to 160 m.p.h. and flood-triggering rains. Estimates of property loss topped $1 billion and Beulah claimed a total of 55 lives, including 12 in Texas.

Smith, General Electric; Lloyd Wardell, Wardell's Carpet & Rugs.

TWO new members were welcomed at yesterday's meeting. They were Miss Martha Blue, owner of Tradition House furniture store, and Warren Cravotta, county librarian.

It was announced that the fire department's new ladder pumper would be on display Saturday, Oct. 14, at Court and Main Sts. in observance of Fire Prevention Week.

Tom Elsen, representing Junior Chamber of Commerce, noted that plans were progressing for the annual Halloween Parade and thanked the chamber for its $100 contribution for prize money.

Elsen also noted that Nov. 4, has been scheduled as the date for the Jaycees' 25th anniversary banquet. All past presidents and charter members will be honored.

Mrs. E. R. Bennett, secretary, noted that 45 representatives of the Myrtle Beach Chamber of Commerce in South Carolina are to visit Circleville on Oct.

12, as part of a good-will tour. A coffee hour will be held with the group at 3:15 on that date.

CATCHING 40 WINKS at Con Thien is this GI, almost lost among sandbags, war materiel and rubble. Shelling of the U.S. Marine bastion has slackened, probably because of a shortage of North Vietnam ammunition.

Marines Rout VC Troops At Con Thien; Siege Ends

SAIGON (AP) — Massive American firepower has broken the back of the Communists' month-long artillery siege of Con Thien and sent groups of North Vietnamese soldiers into retreat from abandoned gun pits, U.S. military authorities said today.

"We made it a Dien Bien Phu in reverse," Gen. William C. Westmoreland told a Washington Star reporter.

The U.S. commander said the North Vietnamese had suffered a severe setback with heavy casualties in their attempts to knock out Con Thien and other Marine outposts below the demilitarized zone.

The break in the allies' favor on the war's one semistabilized front followed up American aerial attacks on North Vietnam Tuesday as close as 10 miles to Red China. The raiders hit two bridges that the Pentagon had previously held off-limits. In all, U.S. Air Force and Navy squadrons flew 106 missions over the North. Spokesmen announced one plane was shot down.

The North Vietnamese, who had claimed they downed seven planes Tuesday, broadcast a declaration that they felled five more Wednesday. There was no immediate American comment.

Although the Communist fire on Con Thien slackened appreciably and aerial reconnaissance showed some groups pulling back, U.S. authorities said there was no sign of a general withdrawal of the 35,000 North Vietnamese troops estimated to be massed in and near the DMZ.

Westmoreland cautioned in an interview with The Associated Press that he expects renewed assaults against the Marine positions.

"I don't think the enemy has given up his aggressive campaign," the general said.

Dien Bien Phu, in the hills 180 miles west of Hanoi, was the site of France's final defeat in the Indochina war in 1954. Big guns manhandled to the heights by Ho Chi Minh's Communist-led troops battered the remnants of a French army into submission.

The Communists' attack on Con Thien, at times surpassing 1,000 rounds a day, was their most massive artillery operation since Dien Bien Phu.

Westmoreland has described the American response — aerial bombs and shells from both land-based and naval guns — as the greatest concentration of conventional firepower in history. The U.S. Marine outposts are intended to block what some observers believe could be a large-scale attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to take over South Vietnam's northern provinces.

U.S. spokesmen said aerial spotters have seen groups of retreating North Vietnamese soldiers. They said aerial photographs have shown abandoned enemy gunpits in the DMZ.

"There are all kinds of indications that we did one helluva lot of damage to them," said one ranking officer. "There is every indication that they are pulling back and that we broke their back this time."

Westmoreland indicated that he expected any lull along the DMZ to be temporary.

"It appears the enemy had planned to eliminate Con

Thien," the general said as he arrived in Da Nang, the Marines' northern headquarters, to confer with Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman Jr., U.S. Marine commander in Vietnam.

"A number of North Vietnamese battalions were deployed against it. This served to create a target to the point where the enemy suffered great casualties, we are convinced. We can't prove it because there is no way to assess it. But I am confident their casualties were heavy."

"I don't think the enemy has given up his aggressive campaign," Westmoreland said. "He has had a severe setback. He has had heavy casualties. He has a weather problem."

"The enemy losses as seen at Con Thien are great but he'll continue to send troops down to fill up the depleted ranks and try to rebuild his forces."

Townships Plan Education Program Of Zoning Laws

A group of rural Pickaway County residents met at the Pickaway County Agriculture extension office Tuesday to map plans for a mass education program on zoning proposals in 10 townships.

The zoning proposals will be on the ballots in Darby, Monroe, Muhlenberg, Perry, Deer Creek, Jackson, Wayne, Salt Creek, Washington and Pickaway townships.

Five townships in Pickaway County are already zoned. They are Circleville, Madison, Walnut, Harrison and Scioto.

Last night's meeting was chaired by Charles Rose, Deer Creek Twp. farmer.

THE zoning officials agreed to utilize newspaper and radio service as well as personal contact in explaining the need of zoning to the residents of the townships.

The zoning proposals will effect rural areas only. Villages within the townships must present separate proposals if they desire zoning.

It was pointed out last night that zoning does not apply to agriculture. The farmer is free to carry on his operations without restriction.
